BLOODHOUNDS LEAD HUNT FOR TRUNK KILLER

'Blond Tigress' Escapes From Asylum Second Time; Posse Searches Brushlands.

Sheriff Says Escape 'Wasn't All Luck'; Guard Placed at Home of Her Parents.

BULLETIN

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — A squad of sheriff's deputies searched a Phoenix residential district today for Winnie Ruth Judd, fugitive mad slayer, after a woman's footprints were found outside the duplex where she hid during her first escape from the state hospital for the insane.

(By International News Service)

PHOENIX, Ariz. — While authorities scoured the Phoenix area in their search for her, Winnie Ruth Judd, "blond tigress" slayer of her two closest women friends, today broke into the home of an old family friend, took time to write two notes, steal some food and two coats, and then disappeared again.

With this new clue, however, authorities believed it would be only a short time before they would have Mrs. Judd in custody again. She fled from the Arizona state insane asylum last night only six weeks after her first escape.

Rev. R. H. Warren notified police that Mrs. Judd had broken into his home. He said the fugitive wrote a message to him and another to Governor R. T. Jones of Arizona, but neither he nor the governor would reveal contents of their notes.

Besides the two coats, she also took some oranges and soda crackers.

Rev. Warren is an old friend of Mrs. Judd's aged parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell. Mrs. McKinnell, who visited her daughter shortly before her escape, said Mrs. Judd expressed fear the hospital attaches might again lock her in a small cell to prevent escape.

Both parents of the missing woman were afraid she might commit suicide rather than to submit to capture a second time.

SHERWOOD TO ASK JENKINS TO QUIT JOB

Welfare Director Finally Decides to Call for Resignation of Ex-Mansfielder.

THEY CONFER TODAY

Failure to Give Up London Farm Post Will Mean Ouster, Says Head of Department.

Thomas C. Jenkins, former Mansfielder, whose 90-day leave of absence from the superintendency of the London prison farm expires tomorrow, will be asked to resign today by State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood, dispatches from Columbus said. Sherwood and Jenkins were to confer this afternoon.

"I will ask for his resignation," Sherwood said. "If he doesn't resign, I will suspend him for 30 days and removal charges will be filed with the state civil service commission."

Jenkins was granted a leave of absence on Sept. 5 because of ill health. He indicated last week that he wished to resume his duties at the London institution.

William F. Amrine, former acting warden of the Ohio penitentiary, has been acting superintendent of the farm since Jenkins' leave was granted following an investigation by the director of conditions at the honor camp.

Breaks Silence.

Sherwood who until today has refused to say he would ask for Jenkins' resignation asserted that Jenkins last summer told him he was "unable to correct conditions" at the prison farm.

The welfare director strongly indicated that he hoped a contest over Jenkins' removal could be averted.

Jenkins for some time has been in ill health from heart disease and if he resigns that reason will be given as the official cause, it was understood.

Sherwood said, however, that if Jenkins resisted removal he would fight the case to a conclusion, "win or lose."

He said that never again would he "compromise" a remov-

Finns Turn Back 'Chute Infantry

Russia's parachute infantry was turned back today when Red troops armed with machine guns dropped from the skies and landed on Finnish soil, only to meet Finland's troops who trapped many of them and took them prisoner. Soviet troops as shown in the picture above are carried to their objectives in huge transport planes and dropped behind enemy lines by parachutes.

'Nickel City' Of Salmijervi Ablaze As Soviet Launches New Air Raids; Red Parachute Regiment Captured; Snow, Fog Curb Military Action In South.

BULLETIN

GENEVA—(UP)—Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire, president of the League of Nations assembly, has convened the assembly for Dec. 11, it was announced officially today. The meeting was called upon Finland's demand that league sanctions be imposed against Soviet Russia.

(By International News Service)

HELSINKI—Backed by heavy concentrations of Soviet warships and submarines in Finland's arctic harbors, Russian troops landed at Liinahamari in the far north today and launched a new offensive at various points near the Norwegian frontier.

While snowstorms and low visibility restricted military activities on the Carelian isthmus and elsewhere in the south, bitter new fighting was reported in the Petsamo district after the Russians took Liinahamari with landing parties sent by sea from Soviet seaports in the arctic.

Russian aviation also was active in the north, with two raids being carried out at points near the Norwegian frontier at the very moment the Finnish government of Premier Risto Ryti was making new peace overtures to Moscow.

The so-called "nickel city" of Salmijervi near Petsamo is ablaze as the result of a Russian onslaught, it was reported. Heavy clouds of smoke billowed across the frontier into Norway.

It was estimated that the Russians had landed 3,000 men at Liinahamari, most of them by boat although some were brought into Finnish territory by air.

Finnish troops in the north are determined to resist the invaders to the utmost, an announcement said.

Reports received in Helsinki via Kirkenes, Norway, told of Soviet troop and naval concentrations in the northern areas.

These same reports revealed that a famous old Russian monastery and church at Petschenga, some 50 miles from Petsamo, had been set afire and destroyed by the Soviet invaders.

Refugees continue to pour by the hundreds into Kirkenes after encountering untold hardships in their flight over the frozen Tundra to safety in Norway.

News of fresh outbreaks of fighting in the north followed Finnish claims of sweeping succeses over the Russians to the south.

Six Hurt In Area Traffic As Snow Slickens Roads

Three Injured In Three-Car Collision In City; 12 Dead In Accidents Throughout State.

Six persons were injured, none seriously, in a series of week-end traffic accidents in the Mansfield area as wet snow made streets and highways hazardous. At least 12 persons were killed in Ohio.

Five of the six persons reported hurt in Richland county mishaps figured in three accidents in Mansfield. The other, a Lucas woman, received minor injuries in a collision in East Mansfield.

An accident on South Main street near Second street at 7 p. m. Sunday, involving three cars, resulted in injuries to three persons.

They were Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Schindler of R. D. 1, Lexington, and Robert Shoup, 196 Newman street. They were hurt when a car driven by Howard Shoup, father of Robert Shoup, same address, collided with one operated by Schindler and then struck a parked car. Schindler received head injuries, his wife suffered bruises on her shoulders, and Shoup was treated for back injuries.

Shoup was later fined $10 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to have an operator's license.

Struck by a taxi operated by Herman Johnson at West Fifth and Walnut streets at 11:30 p. m. Sunday, Alex Yanalus, 48, of 133 North Mulberry street, was treated at General hospital for head injuries and body bruises. He was knocked down by the cab as he walked across the street, police said.

CONVICTION OF MANTON UPHELD

NEW YORK—(UP)—The conviction of Martin T. Manton on charges of selling judicial decisions while he was senior judge of the United States circuit court of appeals was upheld today by a special circuit court of apeals convened to consider the case.

At his trial last spring, the government charged he had systematically sold decisions of his court to the highest bidders. Nearly $100,000 was thus traced directly to Manton's books.

A federal court jury found Manton guilty last June 3 and the white-haired jurist subsequently was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and fined $10,000.

3,000 Finns In Ohio Town Send Aid To Homeland

FAIRPORT, O.—(UP)—The Finns of Fairport—about 3,000 of them—were busily at work today raising money and preparing bundles of clothing for relatives and countrymen at war.

The Finnish residents, who make up 60 per cent of the town's population, have already sent three trunkloads of clothing to the Finnish Red Cross through the consulate in New York.

A house-to-house canvas by the men yielded $500 which will go to "the boys on the Mannerheim line." Another $112 was raised at a benefit sale for the Finnish Red Cross.

The women are gathering overcoats, dresses, stockings, children's caps, mittens and flannel underwear—to keep war refugees warm in Finland's cold winter.

"We insist upon wearable clothing, and heavy clothing," said Miss Aima Saari, secretary of the Finnish Red Cross aid committee of Fairport.

Allies Clamp on Blockade to Strangle All German Shipping

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Great Britain and France clamped on Germany today a total blockade, one of the most powerful weapons at their command.

From today on, the allied blockade will be working two ways—striving to strangle Germany's export trade and continuing to intercept her imports, as it has since the start of the war.

The beginning of the attempt to isolate Germany completely from her overseas markets shared attention with the raid yesterday by royal airforce bombers near the German naval base at Helgoland, hailed here as the most successful air offensive of the war so far.

The air ministry said the British fliers had scored "direct hits" in an attack on Nazi warships, and an unofficial announcement said one of the ships bombed near the North sea stronghold was a cruiser.

The air ministry also announced one bomb from a royal air force plane destroyed a German submarine in the North sea yesterday, and other reports listed four more German submarines as sunk in recent days.

DUE TO START

Work on Postoffice Addition Expected to Begin Soon.

Work on the enlarging and remodeling of Mansfield's postoffice is expected to get under way soon after the first of the year, according to Postmaster Herman E. Homberger.

Homberger said that he had no direct communication from Washington, but that the Mansfield Mutual Fire Insurance company, 43 West Fourth street, adjacent to the postoffice and whose property was purchased some time ago by the federal department, has vacated under orders from Washington.

The insurance company moved its offices Saturday to its recently purchased new home at 680 Park avenue west. The company received notice on Nov. 17 to vacate the Fourth street property within 30 days.

There have been repeated delays on starting the $184,000 expansion of the Mansfield postoffice. The expansion will take in the property immediately to the east of the present building and will extend to Dickson avenue at the back of the building.

Former Mansfield Policeman One of Four to Obtain Prison Positions.

Harry Copper, former Mansfield patrolman, was named as a guard at the Ohio penitentiay today by Warden Frank D. Henderson.

Associated Press dispatches from Columbus said Copper was one of the four selected to fill vacancies created by retirement or resignation from the prison staff.

Copper, a patrolman of the police force for nine years resigned in 1938, folowing a Easter Day shooting during which he threatened his family with his service revolver.

During the past year he has served as part time county juvenile officer under Probate Judge C. J. Anderson.

Anderson said today that Copper who applied for the guard post several months ago had been recommended for the job by the Richland county Republican executive committee.

Judge Anderson indicated that Copper had applied for "another job" at the state penitentiary. He declined to say what the position was.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates, under whom Copper worked for a year before resigning, said he knew that Copper had taken the examination for guard some time ago.

Great Aunt of King George Was Called Royal Family 'Rebel'.

LONDON —(AP)— King George VI today ordered two weeks of court mourning for Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyle, 91-year-old "rebel princess" of the British royal family, who died yesterday.

The eldest of three surviving children of Queen Victoria and a great-aunt of King George VI, she was called the "rebel princess" because she defied strict royal conventions of her time.

She was the first English princess whose marriage to a commoner was sanctioned since the rule of Henry VII, which ended in 1509. She married the Marquess of Lorne, later the ninth Duke of Argyle, in 1871. He died in 1914.

Defiant Georgia Highway Head to Keep Office Till Dec. 9.

ATLANTA, Ga.—(AP)—The forcible ejection of State Highway Chairman W. Linton Miller on orders of Gov. E. D. Rivers was answered by the road man today with a legal maneuver to regain possession of his office.

Shortly after midnight, Superior Court Judge Will R. Smith granted a temporary injunction ordering the governor's aids to leave Miller and his official records unmolested until a Dec. 9 hearing.

Miller's hands were torn when a capitol custodian and an executive attache dragged him from his desk Saturday night.

The ejection started when Miller refused to recognize an order by the governor dismissing him and appointing L. L. Patten as his successor.

PROTEST: Fascist Students In Rome March On Red Embassy

(By United Press)

ROME—Fascist students marched on the Russian embassy through the main streets of Rome today shouting "Down with Russia! Down with Communism!"

First police reinforcements, then 500 steel helmeted grenadiers and carabineri in full field equipment and armed with bayoneted rifles were dispatched urgently to guard the embassy as the students converged on it.

The grenadiers and carabineri blocked off all streets leading to the embassy as the police sought to persuade the students to content themselves with their parade and their denunciary shouts.

Ranks of the students grew as they marched.

Strong details of plain clothed police had been posted at the embassy as the result of a demonstration Saturday, and it was understood that more police had been posted unobtrusively nearby.

As in the case of Saturday's, the manifestation started with a friendly demonstration before the Finnish legation.

About 1,000 Fascist students gathered there and shouted: "May Finland win! Long live Finland!"

All traffic in the area was disrupted.

Eero Jarnefelt, Finnish minister, appeared three times on a balcony of the legation, responding to wild cheers by the students.

He thanked the students, in a brief speech in Finnish, and thus brought new waves of cheers for him and his country.

Then the students began their march on the Russian embassy and the police, grenadiers and carabineri went into action.

The demonstrations, more impressive because some participants wore the uniforms of rigidly disciplined Fascist units, came as authoritative sources said that Italy intended to intervene if Russia attempted in the Balkans any such campaign as that on which it had embarked in the Baltic.

REPRISALS: U. S. Considers Abrogation of Red Trade Treaty

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—As official dispatches over the week-end furnished the American government with a more thorough picture of the Finnish invasion, President Roosevelt and his advisers today were expected to discuss further diplomatic reprisals against Soviet Russia.

Abrogation of the American commercial treaty with Russia, under which certain trade concessions are granted by this government, has been suggested in some official quarters as a possible retaliatory step. This was done in the case of Japan.

State department advisers, however, question this proposal. It was explained that the action was taken against Japan largely as a result of violations of American property and commercial rights in China.

Despite daily mounting demands for severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia, President Roosevelt and his advisers were moving with extreme caution on this phase of the situation.

Failure to accede to these demands may furnish Republicans with an important political issue, it was indicated by the Republican national committee. After former President Herbert Hoover joined the rapidly-swelling anti-Soviet bloc, the committee issued a seven-page document quoting official statements of three former Republican presidents, and others high in GOP councils, opposing American diplomatic relations with the Soviet. Diplomatic relations with the Soviet were instituted shortly after Mr. Roosevelt took office.

Some In-Laws Happy Friends

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It's queer the way letters come in waves to this column.

Today seems to be mother-in-law day, and strangely enough, all of the letters are in favor of that "most misunderstood of martyrs," as one man writes. A lady from Texas waxes eloquent on the virtues of her mother-in-law, now deceased.

"Jim and I would have quit long ago, if it hadn't been for Jim's mother, God rest her soul. She used to slip over to our house, after dinner, insist on taking care of our children and putting them to bed, and make Jim take me out to the movies or some other place of amusement.

"Jim had a hard job, and wasn't very well paid, I was doing my own work, and bringing up three small children—it was a task. Love came pretty nearly flying out of the window. But somehow or other, my beloved mother-in-law managed to prevent love's escape.

"She died last year, and our bereavement has brought us closer together. The children are half grown and now help around the house, and Jim's pay envelope has taken on a little weight. So we're happier all around than we were in the days when Mother, as I always called her, helped us over the rough places."

Then a lady from New York writes of the kindness she met with the mother of her first husband. She was married only a few months when her husband died "but they still treated me as a daughter, with only the ties of mutual friendship binding us, as there were no grandchildren.

Six years later I married again, and my husband and I are welcomed into my first husband's home as daughter and son. My little boy is treated as a real grandchild. Our families exchange visits, and we are all mutually happy in our relationship."

But not all letters that have come to this column, even in the last few weeks, give such a rosy-ate view of the in-law situation. Young wives write that their mothers-in-law are jealous of the love they feel has been lost by their son's marriage. This is an unnatural attitude to take. A normal man has one type of love for his mother and another for his wife, and unless there is something distinctly queer about him, the two types of affection are miles apart.

It seems to me the clash between a mother-in-law and a daughter-in-law begins with an attitude of fear. Either consciously or unconsciously, each holds a ghost of dread toward the other. The mother sees her darling boy kidnaped, and the daughter-in-law doesn't intend to have any old-fashioned ways put over on her. A dose of common sense would rectify the situation.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

LILLIAN'S dynamic insistence that we "get going" gave an impetus to our movements which resulted in our departure from my father's hideaway apartment much sooner than I had thought it possible for us to leave. When we were all ready to go, she gave us our final directions.

"Dicky, you and Madge and Ede will go in the armored car, for you three, especially Dicky and Ede, will be the focal points of attack.

"How about you and old Harry taking chances?" Dicky growled.

"They aren't interested in us," she retorted, "while they are in you. But we're not going to be foolish. We're going to have a couple of extra men with us. We'll go ahead, then you people in the armored car, and then another car following you. The convoy to the farm will be ample."

"Just one second!" Edith Fairfax said, her face ashen. "Were you serious in saying that they would probably try to get at me?"

"Please do not think I care what happens to me. I don't—one whit. But if these men are trailing me, and they should find me at Leila's—oh! don't you see I can't go there after all—the children and everything?"

"Then don't go to Leila now," I sad impetuously. "Come with us to the farm instead."

To my surprise and relief, Lillian agreed with me.

"That's the best solution," she said. "It's better than mine. I had planned to leave two guards with you until we are sure all danger of retaliation from the gang is over. But they would probably have frightened Leila into fits, so this proposal of Madge's is the way out."

Edith turned to me with pitiful appeal in her face.

"It's a shame to trouble you, Madge," she said. "Are you sure I won't be in your way?"

"Of course you will," Lillian laughed. "Every jack of us will be in each other's way, and get in each other's hair. That's a foregone conclusion under the circumstances. But there's nothing else to be done, so let's do it with the best grace we can."

"I don't agree with you," I told my old friend bluntly, and then I turned to Edith with a reassuring smile.

"Please believe that I want you to come to the farm with us, and that you will not be in my way in the least," I said, and was rewarded when I saw her face light up, while tears, which I knew were those of relief, filled her eyes.

"You are very good," she said, and turned away gropingly. Lillian put a compelling hand on her arm.

"Just stand here," she said, putting her in a position near the door, "till I see Gus and find out if the coast is clear. Dicky, when I give you the signal, you rush Madge and Ede down the corridor and the steps into the armored car. When you three are safely locked inside it, we can start the trek to the farm, with only one stop—your hotel, Ede."

"If you think I ought not to go there," Edith replied hesitantly, "and if Madge can lend me some clothes, I can pay my bill and give up my rooms by mail, I suppose."

"It won't be necessary," Lillian said. "And, besides, I'd like to see whether you're being trailed. The men under that woman and her gangster pal undoubtedly know where you have been living. If they're standing guard at your hotel, waiting for you to come back there, I want to know it. We may be able to pick up two or three more of these babies and put them where they won't be able to bite and scratch for a while. Ready, Harry? Then let's get this cavalcade going."

For the fraction of a second no one of us spoke, then Edith reached out and touched me timidly upon the arm.

"I shan't forget this of you, Madge," she said tensely.

Popular Sleuth At Ohio.

A hodge-podge of mysterious events are interwoven with the smart dialogue and the amusing characters in the Thin Man series in the third of these popular pictures. A newcomer joins William Powell, Myrna Loy and Asta in the Nick Charles family. He is William Poulsen who plays the new Charles baby. The combination of the baby and the dog in the same dresser drawer has an irresistible appeal. "Another Thin Man" remains at the Ohio through Tuesday.

Science Isn't Everything.

The story of a great surgeon and his protege whom he had taught that science was everything in life is depicted in "Disputed Passage," a Madison attraction through Tuesday. Akim Tamiroff is the older surgeon and John Howard is the young man who found the "spark" that has nothing to do with science in the love of an Oriental-American girl. Dorothy Lamour with a new hairdress plays the girl. "Flying Deuces" has Laurel and Hardy in the French Foreign Legion.

"Jaurez" At Majestic.

Two of the screen's best players combine their talents in "Jaurez," which the Majestic will show for three days, starting tomorrow. Paul Muni is seen as the liberator of Old Mexico and Bette Davis has the role of the mad Carlotta, with Brian Aherne as the tragic Emperor Maximilian. The story deals with the one disastrous time that Europe tried to get a foothold on the government of the North American continent after it was free. "Heaven With a Barbed Wire Fence" is the second film.

Pixilated Cowboy.

Almost as pixilated as Mr. Chips is the cowboy who entertains imaginary guests in an imaginary home in "The Cowboy and the Lady." Gary Cooper is the tall, lanky cowboy who wins the heart of an Eastern politician's daughter. Merle Oberon is the "lady." "U-Boat 29," a first run picture of submarine warfare, shows what happens when a passenger boat is torpedoed. The story is timely and inspired by current newspaper headlines. The two pictures make up the film menu at the Park theater.

Romantic Mystery.

One of the most fascinating mysteries of French history was the inspiration of the Dumas novel, "The Man In the Iron Mask," which later was made into a play and which serves as a screen vehicle for Louis Hayward and Joan Bennett. It is the story of a lost prince who was sealed in an iron mask when his existence threatened the throne. "Those Glamour Girls" with Lana Turner, Lew Ayers and some of Hollywood's prettiest girls, is the second film at the Ritz.

These Will Pep Up Your Menus

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Many a gal who has never cooked in her life gets the yen to bake about this time of year, to try her hand with a cake or cookies so that she can have the pride of saying, "I baked it myself." No matter how gifted a woman may be, if she can cook well, she is regarded as something super-special.

Here are some new recipes.

Caramel Cake is made with two and one-half cups sugar, three and one-half cups flour, three teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one cup butter, four eggs, one cup milk and teaspoon almond extract. Caramelize one-half cup of the sugar, dissolve it in water and boil to one-half cup syrup. Sift flour, measure, and sift twice with the baking powder and salt. Cream butter, add remaining sugar and beat until light. Beat in egg yolks and flavoring. Combine syrup and milk and add alternately with flour to butter and sugar mixture. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Pour into oiled nine-inch layer pans. Bake in 375° F. oven 30 to 35 minutes.

Cranberry Cake.

Cranberry Upside-Down Cake is very appropriate now that the rosy little berries are in their element. Recipe takes three tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups sugar, two cups cranberries, one-fourth cup shortening, one egg, one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with milk to egg mixture. Add vanilla. Pour batter over cranberries in frying pan, and bake in 350° F. oven about 35 minutes. Turn out upside down and serve with whipped cream or hard sauce.

Pumpkin Tarts.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 5.

A day of "mixed influences," in astrological terms, is read from the prevailing astral forces. Things are likely to move at a rapid pace, possibly with sudden changes or disruptions, but not in an entirely welcome or profitable way. There are omens of loss, fraud, duplicity, extravagance or other extremes, but such may be felt more in the domestic, social, affectional realm than in straight business transactions. With proper vigilance all may flourish.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which there may be conflicting developments. Matters may be lively and productive, but there are signs of menace in social, domestic or intimate affairs which seem subject to treachery, deceit, loss or unwarranted expenditures. With care and prudence all interests may be made to thrive and give happiness. Make changes with due deliberation.

A child born on this day may be clever, versatile and progressive, particularly in literary, musical or entertainment lines.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

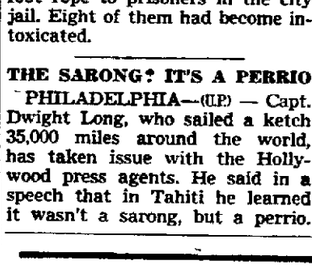
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T AID THE ENEMY

SOME PLAYERS, during the bidding, act as if they have forgotten the fact that they are up against a pair of opponents. Those opponents are looking for every scrap of information which may be of value to them in either their own bidding or their own play. It therefore behooves each of us to consider whether any additional information we give will be of more value to them than to our partners.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East began the bidding here, at all tables of a duplicate game, with 1-Heart, South overcalled with 2-Clubs, West bid 2-Hearts and North 3-Diamonds. All of the East players now gave a slam invitation, some of them by bidding 5-Hearts and some by bidding 3-Spades, with the idea of later getting into Hearts.

None of the East-West pairs reached a slam contract, as West was in all cases prepared to refuse any invitation. At most tables South sacrificed at 6-Diamonds, which East doubled.

The worst scores obtained by East and West were where East had made the spade bid. Because of that North counted West for club length and consequently finessed the suit correctly, thus successfully making a slam contract, which was originally intended to be a sacrifice.

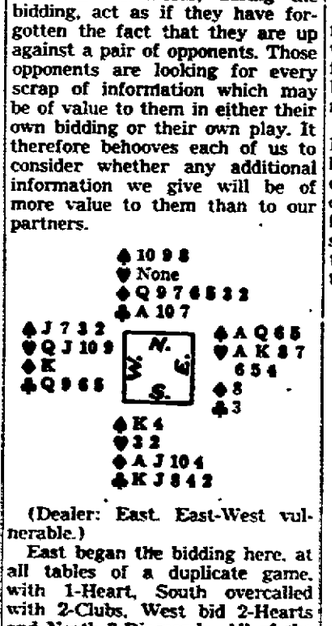
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

If North passes here and East bids 6-Diamonds, what should South do?

RUSSIA OPENS TRIPLE ATTACK, LANDS TROOPS

New Onslaught Near Norwegian Frontier Launched; 'Nickel City' in Flames.

diers were killed, it was asserted, when Finnish land mines exploded near Terijoki at the Carelian battle front. Some reports placed the number of Russian mine victims at 1,000.

Authorities also claimed that 12 Soviet raiding planes were "annihilated" and that a whole company of Russian parachute troops was captured when they landed behind the Finnish defense lines.

Still other reports said that several hundred Russian soldiers were drowned when ice broke under them as Soviet shock troops and artillery units advanced over frozen marshes north of Lake Lagoda.

Owing to a heavy snowstorm, there were no Russian air attacks upon Helsinki or other sections of southern Finland.

Most residents of the city had been evacuated, but fears were expressed that many of the refugees might freeze to death on the icy roads leading from the city.

(A Reuter dispatch from Amsterdam said it was reported that picked companies of Finnish ski troops were attacking Russians along the Carelian and eastern borders, but that the heavy snow prevented any large-scale action.

According to the London daily Telegraph, Russian aircraft dropped leaflets on Helsinki warning that 500 Soviet bombers would attack the city today. A Stockholm report said fears were expressed that gas bombs might be used in the next raid on the capital.

This fear was said to have resulted from Moscow charges that Finnish troops had fought the Russians with poison gas. These charges were denied.)

Eighteen more Soviet tanks were destroyed and Finland's defenders, while retreating from some positions, threw back repeated Russian attacks against their eastern lines reaching from the arctic to the Carelian isthmus.

Reds Admit Finn Mine War Succeeds.

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—The Communist press admitted today that Finnish land mines were causing the invading soviet troops serious difficulty.

"The enemy is perfidious, shrewd, treacherous and vicious," wrote Nikolai Virka, famous Soviet dramatist acting as special correspondent for the Communist organ, Pravda, on the Karelian front.

"Telegraph wires are cut. Danger lurks in every trail, in every corner. Danger is invisible. Hidden. Prepared by vicious barbarian hands. Mines are exploding literally every minute. Detonators are hardly visible under the snow. Wells have been poisoned."

(The Finns announced that 1,000 Russians had ben killd by land mines in the Terijoki district alone.)

(It was Virka who charged that the Finns were using nauseating gas on the Karelian front. Finnish military headquarters denied it and authorities in Helsinki feared that the charge had been made as an excuse for the Russians to use poison gas.)

A Pravda editorial said the red army was fighting "not to capture or enslave Finland but to consolidate Finland's independence, to extend Finland's territories at the expense of territory of the soviet union, to establish friendship with Finland."

It was announced that the red army was driving steadily into Finland and that the Finns were rallying happily to their new revolutionary "government" at Terijoki.

Reported Red Move Worries Estonia.

HELSINKI—(INS)—Reports that General Johan Laidoner, commander-in-chief of the Estonian army, has been summoned to a conference with Soviet leaders in Moscow led to fears today that Estonian troops might be called into action in the Finnish-Soviet war.

General Laidoner and two aides were to depart from Tallinn tomorrow, according to these reports. The commander-in-chief of the Estonian army successfully put down two Communist uprisings, one in 1924 and the other in 1934.

ORDERS HEARING IN BANKRUPTCY

Referee Refuses To Set Aside Ruling On Printing Firm.

Overruling a motion to set aside bankruptcy proceedings against the Wickersham Printing company, Mansfield, William C. Beer, Bucyrus, district referee in bankruptcy, had ruled today that the firm is legally bankrupt and ordered a hearing of creditors. No date was set for the hearing.

The motion was filed by Atty. Van C. Cook, representing the Walpark Realty company, owner of the building on South Walnut street in which the printing firm is located.

Atty. Cook's motion contended that the bankruptcy action was illegal because two shares of stock in the printing company allegedly were transferred by the administrator without probate court authority.

The motion to set aside the bankruptcy proceedings has twice held up creditors' hearings. Atty. Charles Spreng, Mansfield, is receiver for the company.

CHAPTER ONE
The Son of Lightning.

THESE many, many years ago the God of Lightning was sitting thoughtfully at his desk in his great, white castle in the North. He turned the pages of a calendar as though he were remembering his fiery deeds.

Then he turned to the page for the next day. There he found scribbled, "My son's twenty-first birthday." He leaned forward, his gaunt face broke into a flashing smile, and he pulled a bell cord beside him. A gong boomed. Feet came running and a servant stuck his head in the door.

"Call the winds," shouted Lightning. In a twinkling there was a puffing against the window at his right. He opened it and in swooped a dozen ladies in long, gray mist. They flew up and down sighing, "Wh-wh-a-a-t?"

"Summon the fairy world here for tomorrow noon," said Lightning. "Then my son turns twenty-one. He shall have a feast and then set out on his adventures."

So off the winds swept, and the God of Lightning went to bed. At dawn he was up. He commanded great wreathes of glowing lightning hung at the gates. He swung festoons of Northern lights from the castle's towers: glowing mists of red, green and purple. He commanded a feast be laid and then he summoned his son.

He sat down to wait. He heard light, running steps. His son entered the room: a tall, graceful young man, handsome as a prince. His shoulders were broad, his head was carried proudly, his smile flashed so brightly from deep, mischievous eyes that it was hard to tell their color. He wore a blue jerkin, blue knee breeches, and about his slim waist, a silver belt.

The Silver Flute.

He shouted with joy when his father told him that this was his first day of manhood. But just then both of them heard a great clamor at the front gates. The whole fairy world was arriving. Little rain fairies their pockets full of fireflies to keep them warm. Flower fairies wrapped in pussy willow catskins. Trolls that rode the back of snails.

Three huge giants who had walked half way around the world since dawn, carrying between them a bag, big as a house, filled with fruits from the South. Even the witches came.

"Welcome" shouted Lightning. "Follow me. I have arranged a tournament." The whole company flew, ran, hopped after Lightning into the great, stone-walled court yard where Lightning announced, "We of the fairy world can touch the bottom of the sea and the brightest rim of heaven. Today a new one joins our ranks and he must test his strength. I want a pale blue ribbon from the highest rim of the sky."

In a twinkiing the sky was dotted with floating forms. The son of Lightning rose like a flash. Soon the soaring forms were lost in the heavens. Many minutes passed and then the sky was filled with forms dropping gayly down, down. They all carried strips of pale blue. But the son of Lightning had the palest one. He had flown the highest and the swiftest. He shouted with joy.

Suddenly on his shoulder stood the tiny Queen of Fairies. She handed him a silver flute. "This my son," she said, "will help you to win friends."

The Black Opal.

The young man bowed and looked very pleased. But just then a little black witch dropped on his other shoulder. She handed him a black opal. "This," she said, "will make it less easy." You see she was angry that any one could fly faster than she did.

Lightning frowned at the witch, and suddenly pulled a silver arrow of fire from a quiver that hung from his left shoulder. He hurled it at the witch. It tore her long black cape and then spuh through the air down, down to the villages of men.

The witch flew off whimpering. Lightning shrugged his shoulders, put his arm around his son, and led the whole party into a great feast that lasted until the moon stopped in to tell them the hour. The next day the son of Lightning set out on a year's adventures.

CHIEF BALKS AT POLICE UNIFORM

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. —(AP)—It's going to take a police chief's convention to get Police Chief Frank S. Smith into a uniform.

A former department of justice agent, Chief Smith has been Oklahoma City's police chief now for several months without a sign of a brass button in his wardrobe. "A uniform," he says, "doesn't add to a police chief's efficiency and I won't get one until I have to."

TRAIL FLEEING TRUNK KILLER

tion's grounds disclosed a few footprints of Mrs. Judd headed in a southerly direction, two bloodhounds were brought from the state prison at Florence, 70 miles away.

Dogs Become Confused.

The hounds quickly led the party of searchers to an old graveyard half a mile from the asylum. There, amid the tombstones of Arizona pioneers, the trail became confused and the dogs were led in growing circles in the hope they would again pick up the scent.

Although the "blond tigress" had only a comparative short start on the pursuers they were not optimistic concerning her early detection, remembering the cunning she displayed in remaining at large for six days after her first escape from the hospital last october.

Apparently using the same technique which enabled her to previously flee the institution, Mrs. Judd was believed to nave obtained a key to the back door of her ward and casually walked away. No fence surrounds the institution, although one is being built.

Blonde Winnie was last seen at 6:30 p. m. yesterday when nurses checked occupants of her ward. They said that while she appeared nervous and upset, there was no indication she had thoughts of fleeing.

Sheriff Lon Jordan declared Mrs. Judds first escape wasn't all luck and neither was this one.

The same thought was voiced by Kel Fox, of the governor's secretarial staff, expressed belief that Mrs. Judd had "outside help" or a passkey.

Hear 'Romance' Rumors.

Reports were current when Mrs. Judd fled before that a former attache might have assisted and there were rumors of a "mad house romance."

Police placed guards at the home in Phoenix of Mrs. Judd's aged parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, because when she fled previously Mrs. Judd visited her father and mother and left a note for Gov. Robert Jones that she would surrender after seeing her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd, in Los Angeles.

On the evening of Oct. 30, six days after her first mysterious disappearance, Mrs. Judd was detected stealing out of the home of one of the hospital employes. She had gone there while the employee was away to obtain food. She was put to bed in a weakened condition and was later confined in a solitary room until about a week ago, when she was again allowed to mingle with other inmates.

During a jealous rage in 1931 the "Tiger Woman" killed and dismembered Hedvig Samuelson and Agnes Ann Leroi in the Phoenix apartment the three intimate friends shared. She shipped their remains to Los Angeles and followed by train. After Mrs. Judd was convicted of murder and sentenced to hang, she was adjudged insane and committed to the Arizona Mental hospital.

WOMAN, 91, REGAINS SIGHT TO HAIL BRIGHT, BEAUTIFUL WORLD

(By United Press)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—The world is brighter today and surely more wonderful than ever in the lifetime of Mrs. Ann C. Milne who proclaims she feels like starting life anew—at 91 years of age.

Patient Mrs. Milne, one of Utah's early pioneers, can see today after 15 years of total blindness. She finds the world full of colors and familiar Salt Lake City sights are now more exciting than ever to the woman who first came here in 1859.

An operation which is not often successful when a person has reached Mrs. Milne's age removed a cataract from her right eye and restored sight of both.

Nurses and hospital attaches who attended the aged woman while she was preparing for the operation said she had been one of their best patients. Success of the operation depended greatly upon her willingness to lie motionless for six days. She never complained.

And when the operation was finished and she was given a new pair of glasses Mrs. Milne was greeted outside the hospital by autumn.

"The world is filled with colors ——the pettiest in my lifetime."

She expressed only one disappointment. She wanted to see again the old Salt Lake theater, which her husband, the late David Milne, and his partner had painted when it was constructed in the 60's. During her absence from the world of sight, the theater had been demolished and replaced by a modern business building. Regardless, she exclaimed the beauties of the new structure.

Mrs. Milne sees few familiar faces but despite their absence, she says, "I can't express my joy at seeing again."

Traffic Deaths Of Non-Drivers Head Toll List

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—(U.P.)—This isn't very encouraging, but:

If you're a man more than 50 years old; have never driven an automobile; take walks at night and like to take a little nip occasionally, then you're more likely than anyone else to die in an automobile accident.

This was the picture painted by Burton W. Marsh, director of safety and traffic engineering department of the American Automobile Association to represent the average present-day pedestrian accident victim.

Marsh told advanced students in a traffic safety class at the Pennsylvania State college that in Connecticut alone, according to a three-year survey, 95 per cent of the pedestrian fatalities were persons who cannot drive.

"The hardest thing for the non-driving pedestrian to realize is how hard it is for a driver to see him at night," Marsh said.

"Another discovery," he added, "is this: The man 50 or over who advises little Johnny to be careful crossing the street has five times greater chance of being killed by a car than Johnny."

Norris Urges Roosevelt to Stay Silent on Third Term

SENATOR SAYS TIME HASN'T ARRIVED YET

Warns Against Possible Split as Politicos Get Off to Busy Week of Activity.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) has advised President Roosevelt to refrain from declaring his attitude toward a third term now lest it split "Progressive" groups in a critical hour.

The Nebraskan's advice, in a public statement yesterday, gave a flying start to a week that will be filled with presidential politics.

During the week the politically-minded will watch with special interest:

1. The first of a series of speeches on national issues by Thomas E. Dewey, at Minneapolis on Wednesday. The New York district attorney announced last Friday he would be "glad to make the fight" for the Republican presidential nomination.

2. A meeting on Thursday of the executive committee of the Republican National committee to discuss plans for 1940, including campaign financing, organization, tentative proposals for a date and place for the party's national convention next year, and possible foundations for platform planks.

3. Saturday night's winter banquet of newspaperdom's famous gridiron club, which will draw important political figures from both major parties and provide an opportunity for them to discuss trends and personalities at many informal parties on the side.

President Roosevelt will attend and make an off-the-record speech. Among Republicans expected are Alf M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox, the 1936 Republican standard bearers, and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who has indicated he would support Senator Taft of Ohio for the Republican nomination.

Taking note of "recent clamor" that President Roosevelt should tell the country at this time whether he would be a candidate for reelection, Senator Norris said that such demands came, with few exceptions, from opponents of the chief executive and his policies.

Ohio State Wins Highest Honor In Livestock Judging

CHICAGO —(AP)— Ohio State university's six-man livestock judging team today held top honors in the National Collegiate livestock judging contest.

With a total of 4,621 points out of a possible 5,000, the Ohio State team yesterday took first place over 28 other teams at the International Livestock exposition here.

Coached by D. J. Kays, the team included: Herbert M. Barnes, Paulding county; George M. Bitzer of Chillicothe; Harold V. Clum of Thornville; Fred H. Coe of Mt. Vernon; Kenneth W. Haines of Van Wert; and William J. Hoewischer of Sidney.

Clum was third in individual judging.

Willard C. Kirk of Jeffersonville, O., placed first for regions 4 and 8 in the oats contest and Darrell Coil, also of Jeffersonville, won the region 8 competition in special white corn.

Attendants polished up the crowns for the wheat king and the corn king of North America.

Decision on who shall wear the crowns this year at the 21st International Grain show rested with judges who let the finest grain on the continent trickle through their fingers as they examined competitive samples.

U. S. Relations With Reds Seen Issue In '40

Up and Down THE STREET

Adults may talk of millions of dollars these days as they once talked of hundreds, but to a couple of youngsters on a street corner the other day, a thousand dollars is "real dough." They were talking about the loss of a British destroyer. Newspaper accounts had said the ship cost about $4,000,000, but they hadn't seen that. Said one of these boys, "Gee, this war costs a lot of money, doesn't it? I bet that warship cost $10,000." Challenged the other: "It cost $10,000? Aw, you're crazy! I bet it cost $20,000, anyhow!"

Members of the cast of "The Night of January 16" are making bets on the ending of the show tomorrow night when the Community Players present the court-room mystery drama at Senior high school auditorium. The ending depends upon which of two attorneys make the most effective and convincing plea. The attorneys are Ben Goodenough and Ferd Loykovich, and the bets are about evenly divided. One defends and the other prosecutes a young woman, and the jury—selected from the audience—retires and discusses the evidence and the attorneys' pleas before giving a decision. The ending of the play depends upon the decision.

Eugene Smart, Mansfield music teacher was looking for his dog today. The animal in this case is a huge papier mache model, life-size, which has graced the entrance to his studies in the Roth building on Park avenue west. Smart told police Saturday night that the dog was missing and asked them to search for it.

There's nothing like a homey atmosphere, even if you have to use stage props to attain it. Out at Senior high there is a "staff room" for members of the Hyphonerian and they have fixed it all up with "props" that have been used in stage plays. There is a dummy fireplace and mantle, and a vase of stage flowers. Looking slightly incoherent in this interior decorating scheme are two trees, which are "growing" on either side the fire place.

DRAW UP DEBT PAYMENT PLAN

Scaled Down Interest, Bank Loans to Revive Trade New Latin-American Proposal.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Settlement of the billion-dollar defaulted debts of Latin-American governments may be worked out on the basis of scaled-down interest payments and subsequent export-import bank loans to revive trade, it was learned today.

The combination plan shortly may be tried out in the case of Columbia, whose defaulted dollar-bond debt to American investors totals about $150,000,000, according to best estimates.

If the plan proves successful in Columbia, officials hope that it will serve as a pattern for settlement of defaulted debts of the other Latin-American governments.

The plan was the most popular among several alternatives discussed at a conference last week attended by John C. Traphagen, a director of the foreign bondholders protective council, who handles the Columbian phase of the defaulted debts, and Warren Lee Pierson, president of the Export-Import bank.

Other conferees were Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau; Undersecretary John W. Hanes; Chairman Jerome N. Frank, of the securities and exchange commission; State Department Economic Adviser Herbert Feis, and Robert E. McConnell, assistant to the secretary of commerce.

BLAME 'WITCHES'

Communists Raided By Mob For Two Hours; Building Wrecked.

ABERDEEN, Wash.—(AP)—City officials and the "witch hunting campaign of Martin Dies" were blamed today by a Communist party official for a mob raid on a Communist hall here.

Four hundred or more persons besieged 25 alleged Communists in the "workers' hall" and during a two-hour demonstration virtually wrecked the building. No one was injured.

MAILING OF CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS, MILLION OF 'EM, STARTS

More than a million Christmas Seals had been distributed throughout Mansfield and Richland county today by the county Tuberculosis Association, all of them by mail, according to Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, Shelby, chairman of the annual drive for funds.

The majority of these were sent in sheets of 100 to individuals, while business concerns and industrial plants received thousands of them. A total of 1,250,000 were sent out, Mrs. Brokaw said today. The usual return in money is about one third, according to past figures. This would bring in more than $4,000.

In 1937 Richland county ranked 11th among the counties in the state for per capita contributions to the Health Seal fund, while in 1938 climbed to fourth place, with only Columbiana, Lake county and Wayne county ahead of it. Richland county's per capita contribution last year was 5.59 cents.

Last year the drive brought in $4,164, 20 per cent of which went to the National Tuberculosis Association, and the remainder used in the county to finance the free tuberculosis clinics.

This year there will be no sale of seals through the schools as has been the custom in past years. The entire campaign is being done by direct mail. Mrs. R. C. Rehder is in charge of the Mansfield sales.

In place of the school sale there will be a "bangle day" conducted in each school in the city and county, and on that day pupils may contribute their pennies to the anti-tuberculosis program.

Other contestants last night, who had previously won local contests, were Marjorie Hawkins, Park Avenue Baptist church; Frances Stingle, Ontario Community church, and Robert Fralich, Shelby First Lutheran church.

The next contest will be for the congressional district, with the county winners taking part. The contests for the 17th district, of which Richland county is a part, will be held some time in January, the time and place to be determined later.

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA DRAWS G.O.P. ATTACKS

F. D. R. Criticized for Action; Demands to Recall Ambassador Increase.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—United States relations with the Soviet Russia, long troubled and now clouded by invasion of Finland, today became a hot political issue which Republicans intend to carry into the 1940 presidential campaign.

The Republican national committee joined the dispute with a dossier of protest against New Deal recognition of Soviet Russia. It included expressions of opposition of three Republican presidents and secretaries of state since 1921 to recognition of Moscow. Notable among others quoted was Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, (R-Mich.) a candidate for the 1940 Republican presidential nomination.

From Palo Alto, Calif., former President Herbert C. Hoover contrasted severe sanctions against Nazi Germany with administration reaction so far to Moscow's latest moves. He tartly inquired: "Why all this tenderness toward Russia."

From the white house already had come the explanation that Mr. Roosevelt was awaiting detailed information about the invasion of Finland before finally establishing administration policy.

Mr. Hoover's week-end statement seemed to suggest that the New Deal administration was less hostile to the communist than to the Nazi scheme of things.

A year ago when committee chairman Martin L. Dies (D-Tex.) was making a frontal attack on the administration, he called for the resignations of Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and of Harry L. Hopkins, then WPA administrator and now secretary of Commerce.

He accused the three of loading the federal payroll with their "satellites," whom, he said, ranged from socialists to communists with the "common garden variety of crackpots predominating." All of that was in reply to Ickes' charge that Dies was "the outstanding zany in our political history."

But it makes campaign material which the Republican party apparently is moving into a position to use. Mr. Hoover's suggestion of "tenderness" toward Russia was accompanied by a demand for recall of United States Ambassador Laurence A. Steinhardt.

SALES TAX OFF

Receipts Drop in Richland and 19 Other Ohio Counties.

Richland county was one of 20 counties in the state which showed a drop in sales tax receipts for the week ending Nov. 18 from the corresponding week last year, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright had reported today.

The decrease in Richland county, however, was a minor one, amounting to only $466. Collections for the week totaled $10,247 as compared with $10,713 for the week last year.

The county's receipts so far this year are $80,492 ahead of collections for the same period last year, however, Ebright's report showed.

Total collections in the state for the third week of November amounted to $950,392, a gain of approximately $205,879 over the same week in 1938.

The state treasurer reported that $87,873 has been paid to religious charitable and fraternal organizations to redeem sales tax stamps receipts under the state's redemption program.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Trouble Still Ahead For Annenberg Despite Halt Of Racing Wire Service

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It appears to me that the Moe Annenberg case in the federal court in Chicago has received much less publicity than it really deserves, because Mr. Annenberg's racing news service for pool-rooms, otherwise known as horseparlors, throughout the United States, was the instrument of vast political corruption and was, in itself, corrupt and a racket.

Mr. Annenberg would seem to have made a tacit admission that his business was corrupt and a racket when he agreed recently to cancel it, thus depriving the corrupt poolroom gambling trade of its breath of life. But whether he admits it, tacitly or otherwise, or denies it, the racket was a racket all right.

Mr. Annenberg is less widely known than he should be and less well known than he wanted to be.

He should be as famous as Al Capone, and although he himself sought fame in the last few years as publisher of daily papers in Miami and Philadelphia, he did not strive to impress his public with the true nature of his business, and understanding of which would have given an accurate appreciation of the character of Moe himself.

As a publisher, Moe went in for civic righteousness, reform and respectability. He is now under many layers of indictments in Chicago, which was the business headquarters of his racket, and, although one may hear from persons who profess to be well-informed on politico-underworld affairs that some fix or compromise may be negotiated in Washington in consideration of his decision to abandon his racket, William C. Campbell, the federal district attorney in Chicago, insists that he will make no bargain and will do his best to send Moe to prison.

The indictments charge income tax violations, conspiracy to defraud the United States, violations of the lottery laws and conspiracy to impede the administration of justice — this last, so the government contends, by monkeying with a grand jury witness.

It is not a violation of any law to send race results, prices and all such data, or even predictions, through the mails or over the wires, but Moe and his crowd outsmarted themselves by adopting code numbers to identify the horses instead of using their names.

In the first place, they may have had a simple intention to prevent thieves from pirating their information by tapping the wires, but they exploited the obscurity of those code numbers by selling sheets at 25 cents each to all the poolrooms on their circuits.

Handling a program of say, 40 races, that meant a tap of 40 quarters, or $10 a day, from each of thousands of poolrooms in the country. But the mob apparently stepped over the line into the field of the lottery, as distinguished from the plain, honest distribution of news, in using the code numbers in the operation of a gambling device.

The mob got so greedy that they even organized a racket to furnish chalk and pencils to the poolrooms.

Moe has been a fabulous figure in the underworld of the horse business for years, and it is not hard to believe that his income is one of the greatest in the United States or that he can lay his hands on more cash money at any time than any other individual, not barring J. P. Morgan.

Chicago has been so rotten for years that the town may seem to be abandoned and utterly without any will to turn square, but, for the first time in the modern history of the city, there are some stirrings of conscience and civic decency just now.

The poolrooms there, using Moe's information, have been the source of the big political graft but now that they can't get the wire service, their political protection by the local government means nothing. Thus the graft from the poolrooms is stopped and the machine is beginning to shimmy and rattle about the same as the Pendergast thing did in Kansas City just before it flew to pieces.

The whole political community reeks of corruption but it may be remembered that Pendergast was a stout Democrat and a New Dealer who was supposed to be invincible, yet finally went to prison through federal action. These Annenberg cases and those which wil stem out of the expose might do as much for Chicago.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Lost, strayed or stolen: Four brain-children, all girls, young, attractive, valuable. Return to Fannie Hurst, scrivener, or pay suitable recompense for their services."

If Miss Hurst had put it that way, instead of in the more formal and technically involved language of legal procedure, her suit against the Warner studios might have drawn as big an eye elsewhere as it has in this suit-conscious town.

The novelist, contributor to the screen of such successful pieces as "Humoresque," "Lummox," "Imitation of Life" and "Four Daughters," is asking the film factory how come. She wants to know why.

Miss Hurst wrote a book called "Sister Act" which the Warners bought and filmed as "Four Daughters." Delighted and a little amazed at its success — because the picture had no "names" but made several including Priscilla Lane, John Garfield and Jeffrey Lynn—the studio promptly began work on "Daughters Courageous," employing virtually the same cast without benefit of a Hurst story. This too was a wow, and the boys warmed up to the third film, a sequel to the first and called "Four Wives."

Shortly before the preview Miss Hurst's how-come suit was filed. She wants more do-re-mi or else (presumably) her characters back.

IT'S an interesting question the suit raises: when a writer puts a story in the movie marble game is he playing for keeps with the characters as well as with the plot?

The writing world is waiting for the answer. More personally interested are those scribes who still enjoy the profits from brain-children delivered in the past, even though now their only work upon them is the periodical endorsement of a check. On the other side of the fence the studios ever alert to opportunities to apply to their favorite charities where charity begins—are not exactly looking the other way.

There seems to be no precedent here for the question, which hasn't risen before for the good reason that studios still pay out sizeable wads of cash for all rights (when they can get 'em) including the Scandinavian and television.

Aurania Rouverol, author of the play "Skidding" which evolved on the screen into the immortal Hardy Family series, has a share in each of the films although she no longer writes them.

LESLIE CHARTERIS, creator of "the Saint," has a different arrangement. RKO pays Charteris for each "Saint" used, has an option on all his stories involving the detective-adventurer, but must buy a Charteris book even if the studio wants to place the character in a story of its own making.

The widow of Earl Derr Biggers, creator of "Charlie Chan," receives $7500 every time a Chan goes into production, and only the Biggers character is involved, his new adventures being concocted by studio staff writers.

Katherine Kavanaugh originated the screen's first modern "family" series, but the studio immediately purchased all rights to the Jones Family characters, for a flat sum, as soon as it was decided to perpetuate them.

The Warner-Hurst controversy may produce different angles, including possibly the question of a studio's right to make two pictures from one novel if that is what has been done.

In any event, it's going to be one legal-hi'ry tilt with a punch.

D., livery, will not be available next season, but it was feared that Cleveland would stage other raids on Mansfield. . . . Leon Maloney, diminutive right hander, who appeared in more games than any other pitcher in the league last summer, and Frank Ankenbrandt are two players who are well thought of by Cleveland scouts. . . . In addition to Maloney and Ankenbrandt, Mansfield's reserve list for 1940 includes Howard Beals, Paul Curley, Donald Mauri, Lloyd Joyce, George Laudila, Stan Olesko, Howard Patterson, Robert Schremser, John Spartichino, Harry Siegbert, Dewey Stover and Connell Zerman. . . . Schremser and Spartichino are not likely to return . . . and Stover has not been re-signed as yet.

Barrett, Gilbert On Louisville Roster

OFFICIALS of the Louisville Colonels of the American association think mighty well of John Barrett and Andy Gilbert, a couple of Mansfield graduates . . . Barrett started the season with the Colonels this year, but he was optioned to Scranton, Pa., as he was somewhat short of the class demanded in the A. A. . . . The year in the Eastern league has prepared Barrett for Association ball, according to the talk heard around here . . . . While Gilbert was confined to a Class C circuit last summer, he is a standout prospect . . . . Gilbert no longer shows any effect of the accident which nearly ended his baseball career here in 1937, and his development is being watched carefully by the Boston Red Sox scouts. Gilbert is not expected to jump into Class AA ball next season without further seasoning, but Billy Evans, head of the Sox's farm system, can't see how the Latrobe, Pa., boy can miss making the big leagues. . . . It was also learned here that Pitcher George Schneidmuller will get another chance with Little Rock next year, while Hal Cheney, pitching star of the Mansfield team's last-month pennant drive in 1937, will remain with Rocky Mount, N. C. . . . Steve Padres, an ex-Mansfield gardener, is slated to take over Barrett's place in the Scranton outfield next summer.

St. Louis Club Quits Fostoria

ACCORDING to the talk heard around the Netherlands Plaza, where the minor leaguers are in session, the St. Louis Cardinals have severed relations with Fostoria. . . . Fostoria will continue in the league, we understand, but it needs financial aid. . . . Tiffin is another club which is not certain that it has an affiliation. . . . Since Detroit parted with Toledo, Tiffin's parent club has not been determined. . . . but it is likely that Toledo will again help the little Mudhens . . . Mansfield, incidentally, is the only Ohio State league club tied up with a major league club at present.

FORMER PITCHER DIES

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Frank Killen, 69, former southpaw pitcher whose National League record of 36 victories in a season is still unequalled by a left-hander, died of a heart attack yesterday.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A score of 701 today gave Ed Brubaker of Toledo second place in the class A singles division of the Central States Men's bowling tournament. Leading the division was Art Black of Cleveland with 722.

Three Tiger Players on All-Ohio Club

Gillom, Slusser and Russell Picked on A-P High School Eleven; Beer on Second Squad.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The royal purple robe of gridiron greatness fell today around the broad shoulders of 11 youths—the No. 1 stars of the 16,000 boys who romped across the state's high school gridirons this fall—as they won places on the Associated Press All-Ohio honorary football team.

Sheer ability, reaction to coaching, sportsmanship, scholastic rating, strength on opponents, and personality—all these were taken into consideration in the nominations of 200 coaches and 100 sports writers.

The Associated Press All-Ohio high school team, to which every scholastic player on 441 teams in the state is eligible, is more difficult to "make" than the All-America college team.

The final analysis showed Massillon's powerhouse winner of 24 straight contests, with three men on the first team, one on the second and one on the third. Toledo Waite and Portsmouth, participants in Saturday's first annual Buckeye bowl game in Ohio State university's stadium, won two berths each on the first team, while single positions went to Lima South, Washington Court House, Hamilton and Lorain.

Paul Sarringhaus, unbeaten Hamilton's ace ball-toter, kicker and passer, was chosen the state's outstanding player by a narrow margin. Right on Sarringhaus' heels were such luminaries as Horace Gillom, Massillon's fine Negro end; George Slusser, Massillon quarterback; Rack Martin, Toledo Waite's center, and John Willis, Lorain's colored fullback, all of whom won first team berths.

The first string lineup stacks up like a college team. The forward wall averages 192 pounds while the backs average 178.

Langdon (Corky) McCoy, passcatching end for Washington Court House, was the state's punting phenomenon. The tall 175-pounder booted the ball 41 times for 1,890 yards, an average of 46. He got off several 65-yard kicks out of bounds, and rapped one 80 yards from behind his own goal line.

Hall Wins Pro Title

Tops O'Brien to Annex Passing Championship.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(U.P.)—Parker Hall, who during the National League season completed almost three-quarters of a mile in forward passes for the Cleveland Rams, had the professional passing championship tucked under his belt today.

Hall, a 1938 All-American back from Mississippi, edged out little Davey O'Brien for the championship when he led the Rams to a 35 to 13 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles in the Will Rogers stadium here yesterday.

The 205-pound halfback threw everything but his helmet to end the season with a record of 106 aerials completed in 208 attempts for a total of 1,227 yards. It far exceeded the former league record of 81 completions set by Sammy Baugh.

The diminutive O'Brien, whose 147-pounds and buggy whip arm made him an All-American choice last year when he played for Texas Christian, couldn't match the accuracy of his bigger opponent and ended the season with a total of 99 completions out of 201 attempts. O'Brien, however, had a yardage gain that exceeded Hall's total by 96 yards. His total passing gain was 1,323 yards.

OLDSMOBILE TEAM WINS LEAGUE MATCH

Led by Selby, who hit the uprights for a 623 total, the Mansfield Liederkranz team dropped two games to the Ingram and Martin Oldsmobile club in a North Central Ohio Traveling league match at the Meder alleys Sunday. Selby put together games of 214, 196 and 213 for his total. LeMunyon was high for the winners with a 602.

TREATED FOR FRACTURE

KENT—(INS)—Frank Estochin, Kent State university gridder, was being treated today for a skull fracture received in the Baldwin-Wallace game Nov. 18, but not discovered until a few days ago when he complained of severe headaches. Hospitals x-rays revealed a fracture at the base of the skull.

HONOR GRIDDERS TONIGHT

Crestline high school officials and football fans will honor the school's undefeated and untied eleven at a banquet in the school cafeteria at 6:30 p. m. today. Don Peden, Ohio university football coach, will be the guest speaker.

SEEK MISSOURI TO PLAY IN ORANGE BOWL GAME

MIAMI, Fla.—(U.P.)—Final word from Missouri, champions of the Big Six, that they would play Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl on New Year's day, was the only barrier today to a tussle that promised speed and thrills rather than a cautious nursing of perfect records.

SHARE CAPTAINCY

OBERLIN—(INS)—Oberlin college gridders will be guided next season by co-captains for the first time in history. The team selected Kendall Briggs, Lakewood, and Gerald S. Wilson, Detroit, to share the captaincy.

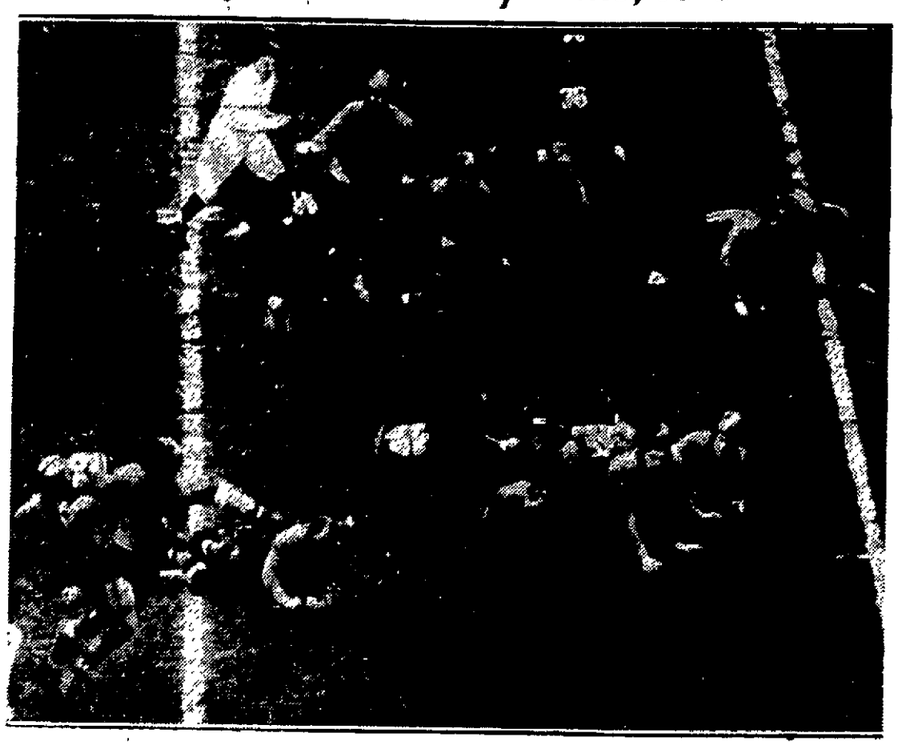
Lenz Sets Up Score as Navy Wins, 10-0



Clifford Lenz, burly back from Latrobe, Pa., goes around end for a Navy first down on Army's 20-yard line, in the annual service clash in Philadelphia. A would-be tackler comes up fast between fallen Navy blockers. After Lenz was stopped on his next three rushes, Robert Leonard, of Gainesville, Tex., kicked a field goal, which gave the Midshipmen all the margin they needed. They added a touchdown in the fourth quarter for good measure, to win 10-0 before 102,000 spectators.

Meder Misses Perfect Game By Two Pins In Loop Match

Bowling with the Ritz Night club team in a North Central Ohio Traveling league match, Meder chalked up a spectacular 298 middle game and finished with a 621 total as his team hit a 3041 total in annexing two games from Cooke's Recreation club of Lorain.

Meder collected 11 straight strikes and with a perfect game in his grasp, his next bid for a strike was wide and he finished with a 3-10 split.

With Cleckner pacing the attack with a 618, the Night club bowlers opened with a 913, added a nifty 1161 in the middle game and ended with a 966.

Korab of the Recreation team annexed individual honors with a 649 count, which included a 253 middle game. The Recreation club came through with a 1080 total in the second game.

HOLD FIRST MEETING

The Winter Sports association will hold its first meeting of the season at the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Laurie Edwards, association president, announced today. The association extends an invitation for the public to attend the session.

MURDOCK ICE COACH

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(CP)—Murray Murdock, long a veteran star of the New York Rangers, is now coaching Kansas City's ice hockey team.

Keeps Going

ERNIE STEELE

SEATTLE, Wash.—(AP)—When Halfback Ernie Steele of the University of Washington was a high school gridder at Highline, near here, his hero was Byron "By" Haines, slippery ball-carrier who climaxed his Washington career in the 1937 Rose Bowl game. So when Steele came to Washington and joined the football squad as a sophomore he asked coach Jimmy Phelan for Jersey No. 29—the same number Haines had worn. He got it.

Sophomore Steele may be as good a player as was his hero Haines. The handsome 172-pound six-footer has been a sophomore star all fall.

Seeks Sponsor For Cage Club

Friendly House League to Open Season Thursday.

Still looking for a sponsor for one team to complete an eight-club circuit, the Friendly House Senior white basketball league will hold its final meeting before opening the season at the settlement at 7 p. m. Monday, Mike Wentz, boys' director, announced today.

The quintets ready to inaugurate the season Thursday, Dec. 7, are the defending championship Rex Billiards, the Blue Goose Sohioans, Daley's Cafe, Islay Dairy, Moose Lodge, Augustine's Service Station, and the Rachelton Farm. The club without a sponsor is managed by Frank Moritz.

Wentz also stated that the league needs the free services of two more referees. George Hummel and Frappy Underwood have all ready donated their services for the year.

NEW RULING LIMITS BOXER TO ONE TITLE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Harvey L. Miller said yesterday that the National Boxing association approved the ruling of the New York Athletic commission that a boxer may not hold more than one title.

He likewise noted, in a statement, other points in which the NBA and the New York commission were in accord—but also pointed out some disagreements. The New York announcement that Petey Scalzo would be matched with Simon Chavez in a featherweight title bout "is another Go-them move that meets with unanimous NBA approval," Miller observed.

1939 Football Parade Heads For Various "Bowl" Games

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The 1939 football parade now heads for a new year, with appropriate "Bowls" on New Year's day.

There will be a couple of side excursions next week to decide championship races in the Southeastern and Pacific Coast conferences, but that is all there is left in winding up the season.

* * *

Already two teams have been named for the post-season clashes. Georgia Tech, certain to get at least a tie for the Southeastern conference crown, accepted an invitation to appear in Miami's Orange Bowl as soon as it finished the regular season Saturday by beating Georgia, 13-0. Arizona State of Tempe automatically earned a spot in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., when it won the border conference title.

The other sectional champions are:

East (unofficial)—Cornell.

Southern conference (unofficial)—Duke and Clemson. (Both undefeated in conference. Duke had one more victory.)

Big Ten—Ohio State.

Big Six—Missouri.

Missouri Valley — Washington University.

Southwest—Texas A. and M.

Mountain States Big Seven—Colorado.

Rocky Mountain — Colorado Mines.

The Tennessee Volunteers still have to get past a pretty good Auburn team next Saturday before they can claim the honors in their own section.

The Pacific Coast conference title will be decided Satrday in the meeting between two unbeaten teams, Southern California and U. C. L. A.

* * *

The winner of course, will be one of the teams in the Pasadena Rose Bowl Jan. 1. Tennessee is expected to get the call if it completes its season without defeat. Tulane likely will wind up in the New Orleans Sugar Bowl. The rest of the "Bowl" field appears wide open."

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

RALEIGH, N. C.—(U.P.)—A few days ago I wrote disparagingly of the Army and Navy football teams and of the great crowd which would pay nearly a half a million dollars to see them play their annual game.

On Saturday, in the press box of Philadelphia's Municipal stadium, I was ashamed of every word I had written. When the Navy band swung through the big gates before the game, with the 2,200 blue-coated, white-hatted midshipmen swinging behind it, and hit the first notes of that rousing song, "Anchors A-Weigh," I knew I had written from the head and not from the heart.

* * *

A tingle, as clearly defined as if a rabbit were underneath my coat, ran up and down my spine, and I found myself singing and cheering as loudly as any of the other 104,000 persons in the stands.

Then the cadets came in, slate gray in a slate gray rain, with every hand, every head, every foot swinging with a rhythm that kept the rabbit running.

Boys in blue and boys in gray, soon to be seasoned men, and this country's first line of defense in a troubled world.

The game's end. Underdog Navy, winner and eager to celebrate. To tear down goal posts. To play taps in front of the Army stands. To throw hats. To snake dance. But before any of this took place—almost simultaneous with the final gun—there was a moment of silence and then both bands struck up the Star Spangled Banner.

The 104,000 men and women came to their feet and to attention.

The 4,000 middies and cadets, including the muddy, tired players on the field, came to the fervent salute that belongs only to those who have dedicated their lives to their country's service.

At that moment, there in the drizzling rain, I think that everyone knew, even a thoughtless sportswriter, that he had seen something that was a little more than just a football game, a little more than just a sports event. A little bit of America's spirit had been revealed, and only a few could have left the stadium with only the score in their minds.

* * *

Just as a game, however, it was better than anyone expected it to be, thanks to a Navy team that finally found itself after five straight defeats. One sight of the Army was enough to give the Middies a drive and cohesion that they had not had all year.

The Cadets never could get underway, and crossed midfield in possession of the ball on only three occasions.

TROPHY TO CORNELL

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—The Lambert Memorial trophy, given each year to the outstanding eastern college football team, was awarded to unbeaten Cornell today.

TOURNEY AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Columbus today was designated as the site for the American Legion's annual state boxing tournament finals, probably in March.

INDOOR'S BIG THRILL

CLEVELAND —(CP)— The biggest thrill in the games so far played in the new indoor league are the spectacular catches outfielders make of high hit balls which seem to float down.

ARMSTRONG-AMBERS BOUT RELEGATED TO ASH CAN

NEW YORK — (INS) — Illness of welterweight king Henry Armstrong has relegated to the ash can his previously postponed bout against Lou Ambers, world lightweight champion.

Before the bout was discarded Promoter Mike Jacobs had both battlers agree that any defense of their respective crowns would be made under his promotion. Eddie Meade, manager of Armstrong, consented to the colored fighter boxing Pedro Montanez or any other suitable challenger on Jan. 24 in New York. Al Weil, who handles Ambers, agreed to a fight between his charge and any worthy opponent in New York on Dec. 15 or sometime in February or March.

NORTHWESTERN TO OPEN AT SYRACUSE IN 1940

EVANSTON, Ill. —(INS)— Eastern football fans will get an early look at a Big Ten eleven next year it was revealed today with publication of Northwestern's 1940 grid schedule. The Wildcat's opening game will be against Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y., on Oct. 5.

Only other non-conference team on Northwestern's schedule will be Notre Dame in the final game, Nov. 23. Other Wildcat opponents will be Ohio State, Wisconsin, Indiana, Minnesota, Illinois and Michigan.

WAR OUTLOOK RESTRAINING STOCK MARKET

Feeble Efforts Made to Prop Up Mart as Selected Issues Edge Upward.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Feeble efforts were made to prop the stock market today and selected issues edged up fractions to around a point.

Ahead at one time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Johns-Manville, International Harvester, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, American Smelting and Standard Oil of N. J.

The cloudy foreign outlook was seen as a restraining influence. Bonds improved in spots and commodities steadied. European markets did little.

Market students found a grain of comfort in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said reaffirmation of prices for the first quarter has had little effect on demand for either current or future shipments.

The publication saw indications that sharp advances previously made on steel export prices were likely to disappear as the new year approaches.

Livestock Market

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO—(AP)—(U. S. D. of A.)—Meat packers paid steady prices for the small run of hogs put on sale today. No choice light hogs were available and the best medium to good grade animals brought $5.40. Quotable top was $5.80. A sharp increase of receipts in all branches of the livestock trade caused prices of most meat animals to decline this week. DOCTORS WARN FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts — headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15c, 30c, 60c.

ALLIES CLAMP ON BLOCKADE

British, French Start Move to Strangle Shipping to and From Germany.

man news agency, said an attempted British air raid on Helgoland was driven off with only a fishing boat sunk and a few bombs dropped.)

The British order to seize German exports—whether carried in German or neutral ships—was proclaimed just a week ago by King George VI as retaliation against mine warfare.

The 2,159-ton Swedish steamer Rudolf was disclosed to have sunk yesterday after striking a mine off the British coast on a voyage from Hartlepool to Malmo, Sweden. Her crew of 23 escaped in lifeboats.

(Two persons were killed yesterday when the 7,030-ton French steamer Floride struck a mine and was beached near an unidentified French port.)

The delay in putting the two-way blockade into force was a concession to neutral nations following complaints from Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Italy and Japan.

To them, the chief effect of the blockade will be loss of profit from carrying goods of German manufacture or ownership. But the order provides for occasional relaxation to meet their protests and soften the blow to them.

Bricker Dumps Relief Problems In Laps of Cities

CLAIMS LOCAL PROBLEMS UP TO OFFICIALS

Indicates Communities Shirk Responsibilities in Toledo, Cleveland Cases.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Gov. John W. Bricker today dumped back into the laps of local officials the burden of financing poor relief with the assertion that "local needs must be taken care of at home to a greater and greater extent."

"The time has come to speak plainly and to the point about the relief situation in Ohio," the governor declared in a statement outlining his views on demands of Cleveland, Toledo and other municipalities for a special session of the legislature to appropriate more relief money.

"No one will argue that the hungry must be fed. The question at issue is whether or not the cities are shirking their own responsibility in failing to use present resources to meet the problems," he said, though, the administration was "more than willing" to do its share to help.

The governor charged that much of the trouble resulted from local officials' failure to anticipate their relief needs and a false belief that the state possessed some "magic formula" to solve "their local problems."

"These city officials in Ohio today who are sincerely interested in solving the relief problem must first make honest effort to help themselves," Bricker continued. "If the state can cut costs, as it has, then so can the cities, if the state can collect taxes, as it has, then so can the cities."

Points Out Sources.

He pointed out that Cuyahoga county could have $3,000,000 additional for relief this year if it matched Franklin county's record for delinquent tax collections and $6,000,000 if it matched Lucas county's. He also recalled that in Toledo, where nearly 33,000 persons were dependent on relief, only 11,622 favorable votes were cast for a special relief tax levy and that 29,665 persons voted against it.

Urging local governments to practice stricter economy, Bricker denied charges that the state was "saving money at the expense of necessary functions of government."

"The state has done all in its power to meet the relief problem," Bricker added. "It will continue to do so.

"State officials have pointed the way to local communities by which their immediate needs may be met. In order to successfully solve the relief problem, state officials must have the wholehearted and unselfish co-operation of all local officials.

BACK AT DESK, TACKLES 3 JOBS

Hunter Hopes to Get Projects Started Before He Turns Office Over to Locke.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter came back from a Florida vacation today, and went to work to get three projects under way before he leaves office on Dec. 31.

Before turning the keys of the city over to Mayor-elect William J. Locke, Hunter hopes to have the way paved for the beginning of what he termed "three major projects."

Chief among these is the construction of the U. S. route 30 N grade separation project, along with a state-WPA project to resurface West Fourth street, and more adequate protection at Mansfield's partially and unprotected railroad crossings.

"I have hopes of at least getting the preliminary work done in connection with the jobs so that work can be started at the earliest possible time," he said.

Hunter said he hoped to arrange an early meeting with state highway department officials on the grade separation project and the West Fourth street paving.

He also said he hoped to have something definite on the crossing situation. The utilities commission made a survey of unprotected crossings here after a recent crossing death and after the mayor had threatened to invoke an old ordinance slowing train speeds to eight miles an hour unless protection was provided at crossings.

OLD LAW USED

Park Loitering Measure Brings Youth of 19 Fine of $5.

City Solicitor Marion D. Ward hunted through city ordinances and dug out a 30-year-old model this morning to place charges against a 19-year-old youth found loitering in the ladies' rest room in Central park last night.

Cited under a special ordinance covering the city park system, the youth pleaded guilty to charge of committing an indecent act in the park and was fined $5 and costs.

He was arrested last night by W. A. Johnson, park policeman, who testified that he found the boy hiding in the ladies' rest room. The youth could give no explanation for the act, he said.

LOSES WALLET WITH $40 IN IT, BUT GETS WALLET (EMPTY) BACK

When George H. Smith, president of the Mansfield Printing company, started for the theater with his wife yesterday he had no idea that he was to play the leading role in the afternoon's drama.

Smith stepped to the ticket booth at the Ohio theater and purchased two tickets for the show. On his way through the crowd that filled the lobby he was jostled by two men.

Inside, and about ready to take his seat, Smith reached in his hip pocket. His billfold—with $40 and three checks and several identification cards was missing.

Smith then called police and reported the loss and gave officers a description of the pair whom he suspected.

He then went back to see the picture—although he didn't say whether he enjoyed it.

At home two hours later Smith received a call from the post office. He could have his billfold, containing checks and cards, but devoid of all money, if he called for it. A postman had found it in collecting mail at the box in front of the building. The pickpockets had dropped it there.

Smith says the irony of it all is that one of the checks was from a person whose fine he had paid in court two weeks ago. The check was given to him Saturday after the first one he had received "bounced."

He considers the check a bad omen.

Surviving are his wife Elizabeth; five sons, Max, jr., Harold, Frank, Joseph and Robert, and two daughters, Louise and Margaret, all at home; a step-son John Schmaltz of Chicago, and two sisters in Hungary.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Wappner funeral home with Rev. Paul Saleste, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will be at the home until Wednesday morning.

AID BIDS UP

Richland One of Counties With Pension Request Boost.

Twelve Ohio counties, including Richland, have 64.1 per cent of the pending applications for old age pensions, Tom McCaw, state pension director, reported today.

He said there were 14,625 applications still pending and that a total of 34,520 were filed in the first 10 months of 1939. About 60 per cent of the applications whose pension requests are still pending will be eligible for pensions, McCaw estimated.

The new applications on Nov. 1 were already 5,727 ahead of the total number received in the entire year of 1938, McCaw said, and applications for the 10-month period were 36.8 per cent above figures for the corresponding period of 1938.

Although figures were not available for Richland county, a slight increase in the number of pensioners here was reported.

BUCYRUS POLICE OFFICER GIVEN 2ND SUSPENSION

Patrolman Accused of Being Tardy in Answering Calls; Gets 15 Days.

BUCYRUS—Charged with failure to answer a police call light promptly, Patrolman Edward Trucks of the city police force, has been suspended without pay for a period of 15 days.

In a letter of suspension from Safety Director W. G. Beebe, two instances are cited when the officer was tardy in answering the call light. The alleged instances occurred Nov. 21 when 15 minutes elapsed before the call was answered and on Dec. 1 when 22 minutes elapsed.

Trucks stated that he was talking to someone on his beat when the incidents occurred, which the safety director termed a violation of regulations in "visiting while on tour of duty."

Several months ago Patrolman Trucks was found not guilty by the civil service commission of sleeping while on duty.

YOU need money? You can borrow—quickly and in privacy—if you can make small regular payments on your loan. You can borrow for any worthy purpose—to clean up old debts, to meet an emergency, to pay doctor or dental bills, to take advantage of an opportunity.

Suppose you need $100 and can repay $9.46 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, $4.46 a month for thirty months will also repay a $100 loan.

Choose your own payments

Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rates of 2½ per month on loans up to $300 and 6% per year on balances above $300 up to $500. These rates are less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Ohio

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

CHAPTER TWELVE

Fabienne's eyes lighted as she read rapidly:

"Dear Fabienne," Ellen wrote, "We hope this letter will not be an interruption. It is an invitation from all of us, most earnestly urged by those whose names you will find here. The play—your play—as you know, is to be presented on Saturday afternoon and it is our hope (a forlorn one, perhaps) that you can be our guest of honor. I thought perhaps you might like to send a telegram. It would mean so much to the children. Not as much, of course, as your presence, but I do understand and hope you are having a glorious time. We all miss you very much, and I miss you particularly. If you are ever to be in New York, I hope that you will be my guest. So much has happened at Willoughby house that I know you'd like to hear about! Affectionately, Ellen."

Fabienne read the names written in pencil: Wolesjcki, Tomassino, Kelly, Wong, Geradi, Svensson. She could see them all. Little red heads, tow heads, black heads. Little slavic, latin and oriental faces. The darlings!

What a softie she was to feel that way! How cooly amused Nicky would be.

Saturday was the day of the play. Saturday was also the day the Hendersons were giving their house warming. She must have Molly take in the seams of her sequin jacket. It was a little too loose and she meant to look her smartest for that party.

There were two things she must do that next morning! Speak to Molly about the jacket and send a nice, long telegram to Ellen for the children, wishing them success, telling them she wished she could be with them.

At breakfast she told Molly about the sequin jacket. Then she got out Edna's old roadster and drove down to the telegraph office in the village. On the way she composed the telegram, but the words fled from her when she went to put them on paper. And she found herself writing:

WILL ACCEPT INVITATION WITH PLEASURE. ARRIVING NEW YORK SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Fabienne left Aunt Edna's car in the drive and rushed into the house noisily, pulling the big door to with a bang. She looked into the empty livingroom and went down the hall to Uncle Mark's study whre his silver head was bent over a book.

She leaned over the back of his chair and planted a kiss on the crown of it.

"That's very nice," he said, turning, beaming on her.

"I feel very nice," she told him and perched on the corner of his desk.

"And you look particularly nice. Have a good ride?"

Her face was animated and she radiated vitality.

"Wonderful," she told him. "I went down to the telegraph office. Darling, I'm going away again."

His face showed immediate disappointment.

"Only for a few days. I got a rather pathetic letter from Ellen Chapman saying that the kids would like to have me come back for the play and I—I sort of thought—" She toyed with the appointments on his desk and let her sentence drift off into nothing.

Mark nodded his head in approbation. "Naturally you thought you ought to go to see what good work you'd done."

"Right, as usual," she said, bestowing another kiss on his cheek this time—and got off the desk. "Now, I'd better see Molly about packing a bag for me."

"Small bag?" he called after her.

"Oh, very. I shall only stay a day or two."

For a stay of only a day or two, Fabienne was giving more extraordinary consideration to the selection of her wardrobe when Edna came in a short time later and went to her room.

"Uncle Mark tell you that I'm running up to New York?" Fabienne asked. She was frowning over a black velvet frock.

"He did, my dear. We miss you so when you leave us, Fabienne."

The girl dropped the dress and came over to her aunt to lay her cheek against Edna's for a moment. She loved Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna so much today. She loved everyone today. Everything had changed in the last half hour. She was filled with good humor that flowed over into affection.

"I'll be right back so you won't have time to miss me."

Edna Willoughby's sweet face and air of sheltered femininity hid a wealth of wisdom. She read more in the animation and radiance of her niece than her less astute husband had. She said, "You may want to stay longer than you plan to. Hadn't you better take an extra dress or two? And an evening dress, perhaps? You've lots of friends in New York who may tempt you to remain a little longer. And something tells me that you'll want to look your prettiest."

An expression of surprise—or guilt—crossed Fabienne's face. She said, "Goose! The only reason I'm going is to see what the children make of themselves."

"Is it?" Edna asked quietly, a warm smile at the corners of her mouth.

"And to see Ellen," Fabienne added.

What else could there possibly be? Of course, Bill Mallory might be at the play—most of the staff turned up for such occasions — but what was that to her? She had been in love with the IDEA of Bill very briefly, but she had put all that out of her mind and it no longer existed. Bill Mallory was just another man and the world was full of them.

But she was saying suddenly and not of her own volition, "There might have been a man, darling, but it was very short and it's very much all over."

Edna got up and came to put her arms around the girl, forcing Fabienne's eyes to meet her own in the mirror they faced. She said, "Fabienne, I wouldn't presume to advise you in any matter unless you asked for my advice, but I'd like to tell you something."

"Yes," Fabienne said, waiting.

"You've got a lot of Mark's qualities and few of Gertrude's. You could love deeply and forever if you found the right person. I don't think you'll make any mistake about that person when you find him. But I want you to look for things to live up to when you find that man. That's the only kind of a man that can make life complete for a woman like you."

Fabienne said, "Nicky—"

Slowly her aunt shook her head.

Defiantly, Fabienne said, "Nicky and I have a perfect companionship. I'd marry him tomorrow if he'd make something of himself."

"Do you mean that you want him to go to work?"

Fabienne nodded.

"I don't know about Nicky. He might, but I would say that he wouldn't do it unless he had to work to make someone love him. Another girl, perhaps, could do it. But if he'd been going to do it for you, he'd have done it long ago."

"You don't know Nicky, Aunt Edna . . . . I think I'll take the black velvet, after all." Change the subject, Fabienne, she thought, afraid she might find herself saying, "I met the man who belongs to someone else. Could a girl go after her man if she believed she was right for him?" But that would have been nonsense, for she knew that if ever a girl would be "right" for a young surgeon, it was Ellen Chapman whose name was a shining beacon in the social service world.

Mark and Edna took her to the train on Saturday morning.

The train crawled to New York. Fabienne felt she could have walked faster.

"Come and stay with me whenever you are in New York," Ellen had told her when she left, but she went to a hotel.

When she had unpacked, she telephoned Ellen. At her apartment, then at Willoughby house. "Miss Chapman is not in," she was told at both places.

She dressed leisurely, putting on the black velvet dress with its fine lace at neck and wrist, the wrapped turban of black and green and gold from which her soft, silky hair flowed like a page boy's. She touched perfume to her throat and the tips of her ears, selected snowy gloves. She dressed as carefully as if she were attending an opening night of Broadway's most exciting play—all for a bunch of little Italian, Irish, Chinese kids in a settlement house!

* * *

The play was to begin at eight. It was just quarter to when Fabienne's taxi drew up before Willoughby house. Fabienne gave a bill to the driver and said, "Keep the change."

Her legs felt water as she climbed the familiar steps and went through the corridor to the hall that led to backstage. She parted the curtains and a whoop of welcome went up!

"Miss Seymour! . . . . Hey, kids! She's here!"

It was very satisfying. They swarmed over her, not too-clean little hands fingered her skirt, shrill voices cutting on her ears. She was ringed around with funny little faces that were grotesque with make-up. Little faces that shone with delight. THEY LIKED HER!

She said reproachfully, and a trifle shakily, "You didn't think I'd refuse your invitation, did you? And do you all know your parts? You, Willie Tong, do you remember that a general always stands very straight and never folds his hands across his tummy?"

Willie Tong hid his round little yellow face in her skirt.

She thought if she wasn't careful she'd pick him up and kiss him.

She said, very sternly, "Now, run along. You've only got a few minutes to remember all the things you've been learning for weeks and weeks and you're going to do it perfectly for me—yes?"

A chorus of young voices, "We will."

Fabienne had to turn her face away. Silly girl, she had tears in her eyes. She had to turn away to where no one would see her. She turned to the left. Bill Mallory caught her with both hands to keep her from running into him.

"Vendol" Proved Wonderful For My Husband She Says

Springfield matron gave report to Vendol Man now at Central Drug Store telling of relief from sour stomach, gastric acidity, acid dyspepsia, and other troubles due to constipation. Advises everyone to try it.

There is good reason behind the great popularity of Vendol, the alkaline herbal medicine so widely sold around here and which is being introduced by the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store. It is because Vendol is made from a good formula, from high grade drugs, and may be depended upon. Some of the leading citizens in this city and nearby vicinity have found Vendol to be exactly what they needed, and then recommend it to others. That was the case of Mrs. Thomas Lucas of 1121 Fox St., Springfield, Ohio, whose husband holds a responsible position in one of the leading factories, gave her husband's experience with Vendol as follows: "Mr. Lucas had not been feeling well for some time. After eating he would feel full and bloated, and would often belch up a hot liquid. He said that it felt like there was a lump in his throat, and his breath seemed to come hard. His stomach seemed to be sour a lot, and this acid dyspepsia made him restless after going to bed. All of these troubles were due to constipation which annoyed him almost daily.

"My husband was highly pleased with the wonderful relief he got from constipation by taking Vendol, after which his other troubles were so greatly relieved that he was almost like a different person.

MRS. THOMAS LUCAS

"It is a pleasure to recommend such a good, satisfying medicine as Vendol, and I hope many of our citizens who are suffering as my husband used to will give Vendol a trial."

Vendol is made from extracts of 12 Roots and Herbs to which are added mild amounts of Alkalines. It is pleasant to take and tends to relieve symptoms associated with sour stomach, gastric acidity, acid dyspepsia, gas, belching, and other troubles if due to constipation. Vendol is a mild diuretic to the kidneys, giving relief to minor muscular aches and pains. It has helped a lot of people right here in this town, so why not give it a chance to help you?

Make up your mind now to begin taking Vendol and see for yourself what it will do. Come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I'll explain all about my grand medicine and tell you honestly what you may expect it to do for you. Come today if possible.

A scientist would tell you that this s-l-o-w "rate of burn" means cooler, milder smoking—with all the natural fragrance and flavor in full, rich measure.

Fast-burning cigarettes produce a hot flat taste and a dismal lack of fragrance. Camel's slow burning is your guide to certain, steady smoking pleasure.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1939.

Bad habits need careful restraint—see how Mansfield motorists misbehaved in November as compared with October.

As one Mansfielder remarked to a complainer Saturday, "I'd rather be in America when it's raining than in Europe when the sun's shining."

Rather nice, at that, to be in a country where the Army and Navy have nothing more serious to be concerned over than the outcome of a football game.

Widespread War Costs

THE MOST impressive fact of the war so far is not its human loss but its waste of wealth.

The British estimate that it is costing them alone nearly $25,000,000 a day. And that is in direct outlay for military expenses. To it should be added the shipping losses, pensions for the wounded and for relatives of the dead, the loss of trade profits, and the vast but incalculable loss of the wealth left uncreated by diversion of so many millions of people from profitable work to unprofitable war activities. A reasonable guess, including all factors, might run up to $50,000,000 a day or nearly $20,000,000,000 a year.

Add the French cost, which might be nearly half as much. Add the German cost, which must be far more than the French. Add the heavy and growing losses imposed on the non-belligerent nations in the war zone, and also on more remote nations, including our own. We might have a total which in a few years would equal the entire wealth of continental Europe or of the Roman Empire of the old Caesars.

This cost, while falling most heavily on western Europe, is really spread by direct and indirect processes over the whole world. The entire human race probably joins in paying for it in various ways, directly or indirectly.

Private-Flying Perils

WHILE the commercial air lines have been establishing a safety record over a period of months, private flyers have had many accidents. The Civil Aeronautics Authority has analyzed eighty-four non-airline accidents of recent months to discover causes.

There had been nine ground collisions, twenty-one landing accidents, nine take-off accidents and fifteen forced landings. There were thirteen fatal injuries, three serious injuries and eleven minor injuries.

Faulty technique caused most of these accidents. Others were attributed to carelessness and bad judgment. The weather was blamed in only eight cases. There were several instances of outright disregard of official flying regulations.

One surprising fact was the survival, without any injury at all, of 125 persons involved in the accidents. It used to be thought that every airplane accident meant death for all in the plane.

It seems plain that private flying needs more drastic control. Careless and incompetent drivers have no more business at the controls of an airplane than at the wheel of an automobile.

Concern for Older Employes

RECOGNIZING the problem created by the difficulties which men above forty encounter in securing or retaining industrial employment, an experiment now being made in Rochester, N. Y., may, if successful, point the way to more widespread application of the principle.

Thirty-six Rochester industries, employing 35,000 persons, have joined in a plan to maintain in their plants approximately the age distribution which exists in the general population of the city, and as a result, these industries have 43 per cent of older employables on their payrolls.

Under the application of this plan some types of occupation are especially reserved for employes who are "slowing down" and there is no abrupt termination of employment for long-time employes merely because they have reached an age at which their speed has slackened on the particular job at which they had become adept.

For many years a number of smaller industries and businesses have attempted individual solutions of this problem by placing faithful older employes in some kind of work which they could perform satisfactorily, and an early application of the pensioning system was made by railroads in assuring old-age security to employes reaching retirement age.

With larger industries, however, more difficulties have been encountered in formulating plans to either assure reasonable permanence of employment or to make provision for the later years of employes who, in many instances, had devoted their entire productive lifetime to faithful service.

It cannot be doubted that conditions such as this have contributed largely to industrial unrest among shop workers and to a feeling of insecurity among many salaried employes as well.

Commenting editorially on the Rochester experiment of providing suitable jobs for older employes, the Columbus Dispatch says: "The prejudice had its start in the hopped-up era when "efficiency" and "youth" were the twin shibboleths of business, and arrogance was its watchword. Forty became a kind of age deadline. Capable men are at the peak of their abilities at that age. But bewildered thousands of these found they could not get employment. The sinister theory spread until under the mass psychosis men over 40 began actually to be squeezed out of jobs they already held and in which they were doing topnotch work."

If industrial management has learned anything from the clear lessons of the past couple of decades the Rochester experiment will be watched with much interest and further efforts will be made all over the country to make the humanizing of relationships between employers and employes more general.

Recovering Stolen Cars

SEVENTY-FIVE PER CENT of stolen cars are returned to their owners within ten days. This is a far greater degree of recovery than used to be achieved, but apparently it is not an entirely happy development.

In the first place, it is said that many a car owner doesn't want to get his car back because it is likely to be in bad condition. A thief usually does more damage to it in an hour than the owner would do in a month of driving. Some insurance companies have accepted that fact and pay losses within 72 hours of proof. The old rule was to wait sixty days but no motorist wants to be deprived of a car so long these days.

Might as well get started on your holiday shopping—there's no truth in the rumor that Christmas is to be set ahead to January 30th.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Scene: the stage of the New Amsterdam theater, about 11 o'clock at night. The curtain is down. Scattered about are 15 or 20 music racks—some of which have been knocked down. Milling about are 35, maybe 40, people. A man in a slouch hat and a grey top coat is sitting on the piano, dangling his long legs. This is Harry Link, the music publisher.

From the din and the confusion on the left side of the stage, where the dressing-rooms begin, rises this voice: "Hellow . . . Hello . . . Sure is nice seein' you . . . Yes we had a lot of fun out there . . . I'll see you in a minute . . . Just as soon as I change my socks . . . Just as soon as I change my socks . . ."

If you listen to radio at all you recognize this as the voice of Kay Kyser, the Rocky Mount refugee . . . "Just as soon as I change my socks . . . Hello . . . Hello, there . . Nice seein' you . . . I'll be right with you, just as soon as I change my socks"

HE never does get his socks changed. The milling becomes more confused by the minute ... Over in one corner Harry Babbett is saying proudly, "He's doing fine, thank you. He's 13 months old." He is talking about his little boy. Over in another corner Ben Grauer is saying, "Give him a chance to get his socks changed." . . . From all this talk about changing his socks you'd think Kay had been wading in puddles.

But he comes out, finally, and Harry Link is still on the piano, dangling his legs, and absently slapping his knee with a folded newspaper. "Kay," he says, "what about that song title?" . . . "How'd you like the way we played it?" . . . "Swell, swell... but what are we calling it?"

"By the regular title—'N'ya N'ya, You Can't Catch me'—Don't you like that?"

Link says, "Look, Kay, I like 'The Little Red Fox' better. It's easier to remember."

"So it is, but that makes people think of 'The Three Little Fishes'." He turns to Ken Hallem, of RKO. "Doesn't that make you think of 'The Three Little Fishes'?"

"It didn't me, but I heard someone else say that's what they thought of."

"But"—and this is Harry Link—"half the people won't even know what to ask for when they try to say 'N'ya N'ya, You Can't Catch Me.' You've got to give them something they can remember—something they can say. If you call it 'The Little Red Fox, everybody can remember that. It'll help sales. It'll mean a push-over. I mean it, Kay. After all, I've been in this business 20 years. What do you think."

KAY chews on this a minute. "Harry," he says, "if you told me how to play an arrangement, I'd tell you to go jump off a building. But if you tell me 'The Little Red Fox' is best—okay. 'The Little Red Fox' it is.

"We'll put the 'N'ya N'ya' in the sub-title. It'll be a cinch."

It was about 11:45 by this time. Harry said, "I'll send a wire now, and fix it." And he did. They wrote it out, on the back of an envelope, on top of this piano, in the New Amsterdam theater, and sent it off.

And that is how "The Little Red Fox," which you will hear in Kay Kyser's picture, "That's Right—You're Wrong," came by its name.

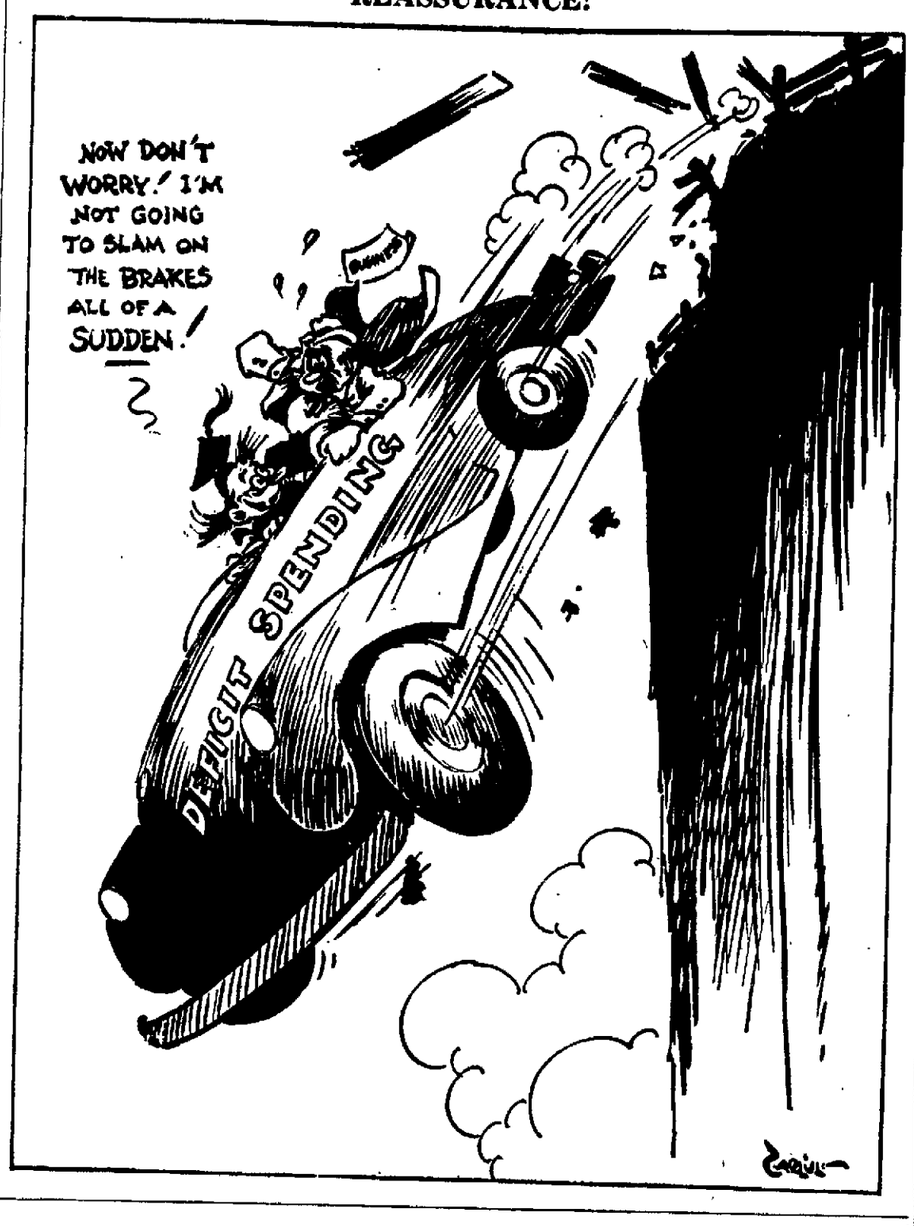
REASSURANCE!



More Demands to Cut Spending

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

SENATOR ALVA B. ADAMS of Colorado is not the only solon who has expressed himself in favor of closer congressional control over government expenditures. However, he's a Democrat, which adds somewhat to the significance of his implied suggestion that maybe quite a few of our national executive departments and other agencies have been a bit excessive in their demands for public money. Republican lawmakers are expected to be critical of a Democratic administration's spending. It counts more when a Democratic legislator hints that he thinks there's been extravagance on the part of a Democratic executive regime.

When an executive outfit has calculated how much it needs to carry it through an ensuing fiscal year it turns its figures over to the budget bureau. The budget bureau, in turn, having assembled all these estimates, refers them to congress, requesting corresponding appropriations.

Suppose the navy department, illustratively makes an application for a financial allowance. It's a department which is answerable directly to the White House. Therefore it's presumable that its plea has presidential indorsement. The budget bureau likewise is of presidential creation; it isn't a bit likely to find much fault with what the White House, inferentially, has recommended. So, in that form, the application goes to congress.

It's referred to the senate and house naval affairs committees.

The navy naturally wants all the dough it can get. The budget bureau acquiesces. The congressional committees also consist of navy enthusiasts.

Congress Doesn't Know.

Thus the item gets to congress substantially as originally called for by the navy department.

The rank-and-file of congressmen, not knowing anything about the subject, vote as per the findings of the supposed experts. It's the same way relative to all the other executive items.

To be sure, some congressmen have said that they believed various departments were putting their demands too high. They've proposed a general reduction of, say, 10 per cent in all sought-for appropriations.

This wouldn't be fair, though, either.

Surmise that the navy department has made a rip-snorting high request, in comparison with a quite reasonable departmental request.

It wouldn't be on the level to cut the war department at the same rate as the navy.

All the departments and miscellaneous agencies are mixed up in the same fashion.

Congress Versus President.

The theory, then, as urged by Senator Adams, is for congress to set up a committee of the members of both houses to consider ALL proposed expenditures of ANY executive origin.

It should go without saying that this notion is 100 per cent contra-White House wishes.

But it has the support of all Republicans and all anti-Roosevelt Democrats. It'll be a red-hot controversy when congress meets early in 1940.

It can't be headed off.

There's too much talk about governmental spending.

General Accounting Office.

It was a movement when the general accounting office was created, right after the World war.

The idea then was to muzzle federal spending.

It didn't work after the New Deal came in.

On the contrary, federal spending became rampant.

Listen, World!

Women Are the Excited, Restless Sex.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S one fact about women which few men understand—namely, that they are THE RESTLESS AND EXCITED SEX.

This, of course, is contrary to all masculine tradition. The average male firmly believes, as did all his grandpas before him, that females are timid, conservative, home-biding bodies who shrink from public life, despise taking chances, dread upheavals and yearn, above all things, to stay put.

The particular lady in question may be a super-armored dreadnaught, yet her lord will vow that there's only one thing for which she really cares, and that is L-O-V-E. Love, says he, is a woman's world.

All those other things she does—running around, holding jobs, sowing wild oats, are against her true nature. The Dear Little Thing doesn't actually know what it's all about. What she really wants is A Home and A Man of Her Own. Some one to protect her—stand between her and the world.

Than which there could hardly be a more cockeyed notion. For the dominant desire in the average young woman's heart, from the cradle to the grave, is ACTION. Something Doing. Preferably a rumpus. But action always—exciting action—with plenty of risk and uncertainty. With herself, of course, in the star role.

Not that she'd admit this. To the contrary, you can usually count on her to give a perfect imitation of a Broken Blossom the moment the guns start shooting. But it's only an act. Secretly she dotes on guns and has done her darndest to force the fracas—coyly pretending, all the while, that she's scared pink, and devastated by the courage of the Ruthless, Reckless Male.

MEN are really the cautious and conservative sex . . . the born duckers, dodgers and passers-of-the buck. A man may enjoy the impersonal adventure of a hunting trip or the mass movement of a big war or political campaign. But every normal male views with horror the emotional, personal mix-ups in which women delight and at which they excel.

Also, men are the stay-putters. A man will cheerfully follow the same program, year in, year out. Cling to the same old haunts and habits. Have you ever tried to take a treasured, five-year-old hat from Friend Husband? Or change the position of the living room furniture as a "surprise?" If you have—nuff said? If you haven't . . . DON'T!

Lives there a husband who hasn't wailed, out of abysmal bewilderment, "What's biting you? Why can't you sit down and be satisfied? Aways wanting to go somewhere, do something—whatcha want, anyway?"

To which the answer is simple and obvious—the lady wants a change. She's bored. Why this hectic hunt for careers, jobs, club activities, social diversions? Why this daily parade of window shopping, hotel lounging? Restlessness—driving women to a frenzy which no man can understand.

This same restlessness lies behind most divorces. Cruelty, incompatibility, faithlessness—nine time out of ten, these are faked charges. Actually, she has tired of the old model. He is no longer an alluring mystery, the source of excitement which her feverish imagination craves. Perhaps, if she made a new start—

Doubtless her grandmother felt much the same way. But there was little she could do about it, save take it out on the family. Which she generally did with a vengeance! A versatile lady can get more fireworks out of a domestic brawl than a whole Harlem riot. Analyze nearly any family feud and you'll discover that it's a substitute for a new hat or a trip to the seashore.

An alarming picture? Perhaps—but there's another side to it. Chances are, the human race would still be wallowing in the original mudhole were it not for this feminine yen for action and change of scenery. So, taking things by and large, maybe the Dear Little Woman's itching heel isn't such a catastrophe after all.

As Others See It

A Few Kind Words.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There is an excellent reason why the U. S. navy has been so secretive regarding the German magnetic mines which have been causing such disasters to Allied shipping. Probably it will be denied but the real fact is that the navy has been experimenting with this type of mine itself.

Behind the scenes, the British have known the exact make-up of the German mines for some time. So also have our own experts.

The first German magnetic mine was found washed up on the coast of Norway, several weeks before the Germans began their campaign in the English Channel. Apparently, the Germans at that time were experimenting with the mine in Norwegian waters.

The British, however, didn't pay much attention to the new mine. So when the Nazis began their campaign in earnest, Allied shipping was caught completely off base. Since then, more mines have been washed up off the English coast, and have been taken to pieces by the British.

The principle on which the mine works is a magnetic compass. The needle of the compass points normally north. But when a large body of steel passes nearby, the needle is deflected from the north, and this swerving of the needle ignites the high explosive inside the mine.

The mine lies at the bottom of the sea and does not rise to the top. Therefore, it is effective only in shallow water. But even 30 or 40 feet from the hull of a ship, its explosion can be just as deadly as if it actually struck the ship itself.

* * *

Shallow Water Weapons.

BECAUSE the mines are effective only in relatively shallow water, they have been concentrated in and around the English Channel. They would be valueless if strewn around the deep Atlantic.

One important effect which they have had on German warfare is to force all Nazi submarines out of control waters. Submarines explode the mines just as easily as merchant vessels, in fact more easily. So the Germans have to keep their U-boats in the deep Atlantic or at home.

Reports from the British navy received in official quarters are that the British now have the mine terror licked. The British solution is to tow a large piece of iron behind a wooden boat. The wooden boat does not set off the magnetic mine, but the iron which follows in its wake, does.

At present the British have abandoned the old-fashioned mine sweeper, and are literally combing the seas around the English Channel. They may be too optimistic, but they think that in another week, or even less, Germany's magnetic mines will be all exploded.

Meanwhile the British air corps is extra diligent to prevent Nazi planes from dropping more mines around the English Channel. They are not entirely sure, but they believe most of the mines were dropped from the air, unless some were planted by disguised Nazi wooden vessels.

Mrs. R.'s Thanksgiving.

SCENE IN Mrs. Roosevelt's New York apartment about two weeks ago: Enter Miss Thompson, the First Lady's secretary. Miss Thompson: "Well, at last I've found out when Thanksgiving is."

Mrs. Roosevelt: "When is it?"

Miss Thompson: "It's on the 23rd. At least that's the day your newspaper syndicate is celebrating it."

Note—Mrs. Roosevelt had been anxious to find out which day her syndicate was celebrating as it was necessary for her to write two columns on the day before Thanksgiving, so the syndicate staff could take a full holiday off.

Capital Chaff.

KEEP AN EYE on Rear Admiral James Otto Richardson. He is scheduled to command the United States fleet upon the retirement of Admiral Bloch next year. . . . Washington circles find it hard to believe that Senator and Mrs. Gerald P. Nye have agreed to disagree. The senator has maintained a separate residence since late spring, and friends insist there seems to be no prospect of reconciliation. The senator has been in the Far West on a speaking tour since congress adjourned and the family has been living at 3802 Gramercy where the Nyes have resided for nearly fifteen years. . . . The British censors have not let it out, but the British admirals never appointed a board of inquiry to examine the reasons for the sinking of the Royal Oak. They knew that any such inquiry would reveal that they had taken no precautions to prevent submarines from entering Scapa Flow. Ordinarily when a warship is even scratched, a board of inquiry investigates.

Associated Gas.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, but it looks as if the giant Associated Gas and Electric company, which has bucked Roosevelt more than any other utility, is about to go New Deal.

It is considering appointment of Stewart McDonald, head of the Federal Housing Administration, as its new president.

Behind this are two immediate factors: (1) the company needs cash to meet payments on its bonds maturing in March, 1940; and (2) easiest way to get cash is through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Originally Associated Gas applied for $50,000,000 of RFC funds. It will now get $26,000,000 plus a new executive. Jesse Jones, head of the RFC, has strongly recommended Stewart McDonald, so "Stew" may be the man.

Actually there is far more background to the Associated Gas picture than this. And the most dramatic scenes were in the Senate lobbying investigation of 1934, when Howard Hopson, its president eluded subpoena chasers for several weeks, later emitting the most scathing diatribes against the New Deal heard from any utility.

Top-Heavy Company.

ASSOCIATED GAS is one of the largest and most intricate utilities in the country. It owes about one billion dollars to stock and bondholders.

Actually it is controlled by two private trusts, the Mange trust, held by chairman of the board J. I. Mange; and the Hopson trust held by Howard Hopson. These trusts, in turn, control Associated Gas and Electric company, which has a lot of stock issued against it, but no assets except a claim on the Associated Gas and Electric Corporation.

Under the "Corporation" there are a lot of incestuous corporations so interlocked that companies at the very bottom own stock in those at the very top. Some stock actually has been issued as $1 of stock and $99 of surplus, and then the company has turned around and paid dividends out of this alleged "surplus." And when "company" stockholders have complained, they have been told that the assets of the company all have been turned over to the "Corporation."

This is just part of the tangle which Stewart McDonald may have to unravel.

View of the Valley

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I LEFT our little cottage just after sun-up, when I had kindled a fire in the stove. I walked west along the sandy, gravelly road that divides the farm, to the west line where I left the highway and went up the winding trail through the brambles, tall dry goldenrod and white aster stalks.

The frost was white and heavy on the blue grass and dry leaves. It crunched beneath my feet. My pants from the knees down were gray with little icy pellets. The snappy tang of cold was pleasant to my face, and the air smelled fresh and good. The first rays of the sun silently touched the slope I stood upon, then flowed into the bosom of the pleasant valley.

I walked up to the higher ground where once heavy timber grew, and now a few line of brush is left. Looking down on the metal roofs of our house and barn, I watched the blue wood smoke rise straight up from the chimney. There beneath that roof my wife and family still were sleeping. It had been my privilege to build the fire upon the humble hearth to make them warm and comfortable this wintry morning. It had been my pleasure to cut dry, wasting wood and haul it to the door, to be used for warmth and happiness for healthy, happy children.

Perhaps it lacks the conveniences of city homes and stands in a rugged solitary spot too far from places, but the rustic foothills wooded with evergreens, oak and hickory and the towering hills that guard the scattered rural dwellings make it homelike to me. I am a rustic. Here clear streams flow and cool springs bubble, and wind their way across the meadows. Their channels are green with watercress and long soft strands of algae wave back and forth with the current in some places. Within our valley almost every farmer has a spring and nearly every pasture a creek where stock can drink. Such wholesome water, filtered through the sandstone of the hills, is a farmer's wealth. It gives him health, refrigeration for his milk and cream and irrigation for his fields when they need it.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Carat"—It Means 'Little Horn'.

Standard measure of weight of jewelers, "carat" is the English form of the Greek word meaning "little horn."

The "little horn" was the fruit of the carob or locust tree.

Weighing four grains or one sixth of an ounce, the "little horn," as the seed was called, because of its lightness and uniform mass, was requisitioned to weigh diamonds and other precious stones and metals.

In time, the plant itself was supplanted; but the standard of measurement survived, as did the term carat.

Chatter Turns To Holidays At First Snow

Past, Future Affairs Furnish Subjects To Write About.

THAT greeting of a blanket of white yesterday morning helped promote the Christmas spirit, didn't it? All talk seemed to turn to shopping, decorations, fruit cake recipes, and holiday parties, and it took a good deal of snooping and digging to find some week-end excitement. Audrey Anglin was one young woman in the city who was quite busy last evening, for she entertained 12 of her friends at her 15th birthday party.

Hearts were played at the affair which was held at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Anglin, 110 Helen avenue. Prizes were awarded to the Misses Marilee Sword and Catherine Lannert, and refreshments were served later in the evening. A red and white color scheme was used.

Axtell in charge will be features of the program. Employed girls have been invited to attend this meeting.

A very special Christmas program wil be held at the First Congregational church Thursday afternoon with Miss Ruth West in charge. Members of the Women's association will meet in the library for a musical and tea. Mrs. Walter T. Jameson will be a featured singer.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Frederick Haag, jr., was guest speaker, choosing for his subject "It Is More Blessed to Give Than to Receive."

Miss Jean Shivley gave a poem, and a Christmas story was presented by Mrs. Charles Ray. The program was arranged by Mrs. Dorras Ruark and Miss Bainter. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Roland Flower, Galion, and Miss Esther Jane Maxwell. Lighted red tapers in crystal holders decorated the long table. On Jan. 7 the officers will be installed.

HAVE SOCIAL.

Members of the Klippy Klip club met Saturday evening with Miss Martha Bapka for a social time. Prizes were won by Helen Kemle, Edith Winbigler, Anna Peters and Evelyn Zeller. Dinner was served by the hostess.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Dec. 4.

Lucy, dear:

It's hard to believe that it's December already, but it did seem a little more of an actuality Saturday night, what with the first snowfall on our colorful downtown Christmas lights and the first of the sorority holiday formals. . . . I'm sorry you couldn't have been here for the Delta Theta Tau dance at the Mansfield-Leland because it really was a nice affair—and the gals cut quite a pretty figure in their new gowns, too—Kay Baker looked striking in a dress of black crepe trimmed with gold sequins, while Esther Dunham and Peg Black were lovely in gowns of white with orchid shoulder corsages.

The nicest thing Mrs. Charles McMullen received for her birthday, was the surprise of having her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Chatlain, arrive to join in the celebration. . . . Mrs. Chatlain was Josephine Henness before her marriage in early autumn, you probably recall, and this was her and her husband's first visit home since moving to Chicago after the wedding. . . . They all had a gala family dinner at the home of Jo's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Henness, yesterday noon. . . . The Chatlains left for the Windy City again late in the afternoon, but they'll be back for a longer stay at Christmas time.

It looks very much as though Cupid has run rampant in the courthouse—there are that many diamond rings gracing feminine hands over there. . . . Lena Mae Teeter (she's secretary to Probate Judge C. J. Anderson) received hers most recently—it's from Clayton Frank. . . . Leota Pittenger (who's secretary to County Superintendent Boyd Robinson) is wearing an engagement ring from Arthur Boyce of Shelby. . . . And Mary Kay Woerth (stenographer in the recorder's office) wears the sparkler John C. Glaze presented to her.

EVIDENTLY if their respective college campuses don't have the desired organizations, our collegians organize them. . . . Jeanette Isaly (who is taking her first year of study at Stephens college this year) noticed the lack of any kind of a nature club at the school, so with a group of six other interested science students, she organized such a club and saw to it that a charter was obtained from the school. . . . Jeanette was elected president and the club has since proved to be one of the school's most active organizations. . . . She will be in town for Christmas, Lucy—visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Isaly.

These are busy days for Eleanor Wilcox, a student at Hiram college because the college a cappella choir of which she is a member is having a good many rehearsals for its Christmas program to be presented at the school next Sunday afternoon. . . . Eleanor, you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilcox.

I'M SURE you remember Rachel Collett, Lucy, because she was a resident of our town about the same time you were. . . . She's living in Ada with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collett, and attending Ohio Northern university now—and the most important news about her to date is that she's wearing Jack Runner's fraternity pin. . . . Jack's a student from Sandusky at the university.

When a TWA transport plane took off from Columbus about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, there were two Mansfield nurses aboard—Helen Becker and Gladys Allen, who have gone out to California for a mid-winter vacation.

SPEAKING of California and vacations thereabouts, June Ford has just returned from a two months' stay in Hollywood and other points of interest in the sunshine state as well as Albuquerque, N. M. While in Hollywood, June visited with Marjorie DeHart, a former Mansfielder, and in Albuquerque she took several courses of study in connection with her work as dance instructor at the Marty Hogan studio here.

Rita Newcomer and Mary Schiska had a busy week-end—entertaining Louise Farrell and Eileen Gfell from Norwalk—Louise is a former resident of our town, you know.

IF YOU'RE in Dayton this week, Lucy, you might drop in at the Hotel Miami for the antique show. . . . And if you do, take especial notice of the glass and furniture on display, because a part of it is being exhibited by a Mansfielder, E. M. Owens.

* * * * *

All of which seems to wind up the news for today, Lucy—more to follow next week.

Lovingly,

Marianne

TWO-HEADED SNAKE

KYOTO, Japan — (U.P.) — Local residents are marveling at a two-headed snake now on exhibition near here. The unusual reptile was found slithering across a road by a schoolboy, who captured it. He put it in a glass bottle and took it to his school where it is being exhibited.
